SYMONDS' RENAISSANCE IN ITALY.

ITALIAN LITERATURE. 2 vols. 8vo. With portrait of the author. $7.00.

These volumes complete Mr. Symonds' great work on the Renaissance in Daly, the' previously published volumes being-

PART I. THE AGE OF THE DESPOTS. 8vo. $3.50.

PART II. THE REVIVAL OF LEARNING. 8vo. $3.50.

PART III. THE FINE ARTS. Svo. $3.50.

"Each volume is complete in itself, and altogether they nobly illustrate one of the most interesting periods in the intellectual history of the human race. The fourteenth and fifteenth centuries in Italy were luminous and glorious in art, literature, philosophy, discovery and, indeed, in all of the purely intellectual elevation of makind, Mr. Synnonds has studied this period with enthusiasm, and certainly no other English writer compares with him in the vividness and completeness of view which he has opened to modern readers."-Boston Advertiser.

GREECE AND ROME,

THEIR LIFE AND ART. By JACOB VON FALKE, Director of the Imperial Museum, Berlin. Translated by William Hand Browne. With over Four-hundred Illustrations. 4to, $15.

"As a text-book for artists, 'Greece and Rome' would furnish endless material, and as for the student and scholar, the text alone, apart from the magnificence of the illustrations, would present such information as they would be most desirous of acquiring. In the production of such a book, no matter where its origin, the publishers add much to the education of the country."-N. Y. Times.

'A sumptuous work."-N. Y. Tribune.

"Gives by far the clearest view of antique life which is given by any one publication accessible in the English language,"-N. 1. World.

"For all time such a volume is a treasure in the house, often to be consulted and always with instruction, while the pictorial illustrations and the magnificence of the binding make it the chief ornament of the library or the parlor."-N. Y. Observer.

LIVES OF AMERICAN WORTHIES.

16mo., $1.25. each.

LIFE OF WILLIAM PENN. By ROBERT J. BURDETTE.

LIFE OF CAPTAIN JOHN SMITH. By CHARLES DUDLEY WARNER.

LIFE OF CHRISTOPHER COLUMBUS. By W. L. ALDEN.

To be followed by BENJAMIN FRANKLIN, by; GEORGE WASHINGTON, by John Habberton, author of "Helen's Babies," etc.: Thomas Jefferson, by Joel Chandler Harris ("Uncle Remus"): Andrew Jackson, by George T. Lanigan, author of "Fables ont of the World."

Despite the humorous character of the books, the truth of history is adhered to.

THE SUMMER SCHOOL OF PHILOSOPHY MOUNT DESERT.

Twenty-four Pen and Ink Drawings, by John A. MITCHELL. 4to, $3.50.

From the first page to the last it is a revel of fairy fun and mischievous grace. The wisdom taught is that of love, and the young men and maidens created by Mr. J. A. Mitchell's humorous imagination wander through the book under the ingenious, the saucy, the benignant tuition of the quaintest band of Cupids who ever skipped from an artist's pencil. All the characteristics of Mount Desert-the charms of the summer sea as viewed by twos, the vigils on the piazza, the bouncing and abundant buck-board —are suffused with that delicate wit of the pencil in which Thackeray was the great, if untrained, master."- N. Y. Tribune.

FLY LEAVES

BY

With additions from the author's earlier volume of "Verses and Translations,"

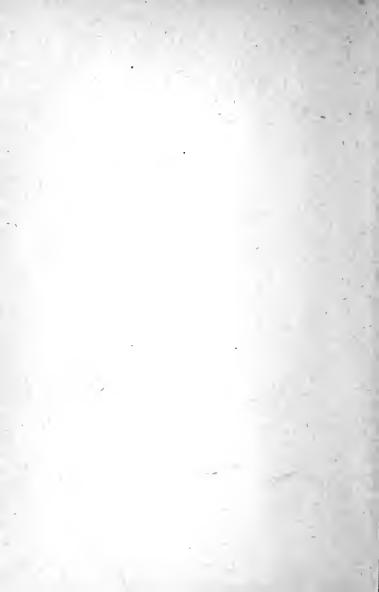

THIRD EDITION

With a new poem.

PUBLISHER'S NOTE.

A few people with a keen scent for good things have for some time amused themselves with the occasional copies brought over by tourists, of a little volume, now in its fourth edition in England, called "Verses and Translations by C. S. C." Those who knew this book were well pleased to see, this Spring, the announcement in the English papers of "Fly Leaves, by C. S. C." The announcements were soon followed by highly complimentary reviews, in some of which the author's name was given in full as C. S. Calverley.

The present volume contains the "Fly Leaves," and all of the earlier volume except the Translations. It was not thought that the translations would present enough novelty or originality to justify their reproduction.

June, 1872.

The call for a new edition (the third) permits the addition of a poem written since the earlier impressions were made.

January, 1873.

FLY LEAVES.

MORNING.

TIS the hour when white-horsed Day
Chases Night her mares away;
When the Gates of Dawn (they say)
Phæbus opes:

And I gether that the Oughn

And I gather that the Queen

May be uniformly seen,

Should the weather be serene,

On the slopes.

When the ploughman, as he goes

Leathern-gaitered o'er' the snows,

From his hat and from his nose

Knocks the ice;

And the panes are frosted o'er,

And the lawn is crisp and hoar,

As has been observed before

Once or twice.

When, arrayed in breastplate red,
Sings the robin for his bread,
On the elm-tree that hath shed
Every leaf;
While, within, the frost benumbs
The still sleepy school-boy's thumbs,
And in consequence his sums
Come to grief.

But when breakfast-time hath come,

And he's crunching crust and crumb,

He'll no longer look a-glum

Little dunce;

But be brisk as bees that settle
On a summer-rose's petal:
Wherefore, Polly, put the kettle
On at once.

EVENING.

On the lawn, when up the fells

Steals the Dark, and fairy fingers

Close unseen the pimpernels:

When, his thighs with sweetness laden,

From the meadow comes the bee,

And the lover and the maiden

Stand beneath the trysting tree:—

Lingers on, till stars unnumbered

Tremble in the breeze-swept tarn,

And the bat that all day slumbered

Flits about the lonely barn;

And the shapes that shrink from garish

Noon are peopling cairn and lea;

And thy sire is almost bearish

If kept waiting for his tea:—

And the screech-owl scares the peasant

As he skirts some church-yard drear;

And the goblins whisper pleasant

Tales in Miss Rossetti's ear;

Importuning her in strangest,

Sweetest tones to buy their fruits:—

O be careful that thou changest,

On returning home, thy boots.

SHELTER.

BY the wide lake's margin I marked her lie—
The wide, weird lake where the alders sigh—
A young fair thing, with a shy, soft eye;

And I deemed that her thoughts had flown

To her home, and her brethren, and sisters dear,

As she lay there watching the dark, deep mere,

All motionless, all alone.

Then I heard a noise, as of men and boys,

And a boisterous troop drew nigh.

Whither now will retreat those fairy feet?

Where hide till the storm pass by?

One glance—the wild glance of a hunted thing—.

She cast behind her; she gave one spring;

And there followed a splash and a broadening ring

On the lake where the alders sigh.

She had gone from the ken of ungentle men!

Yet scarce did I moan for that;

For I knew she was safe in her own home then

And, the danger past, would appear again,

For she was a water-rat.

IN THE GLOAMING.

- IN the Gloaming to be roaming, where the crested waves are foaming,
 - And the shy mermaidens combing locks that rippie to their feet;
- Where the Gloaming is, I never made the ghost of an endeavor
 - To discover—but whatever were the hour, it would be sweet.
- "To their feet," I say, for Leech's sketch indisputably teaches
 - That the mermaids of our beaches do not end in ugly tails,

- Nor have homes among the corals; but are shod with neat balmorals,
 - An arrangement no one quarrels with, as many might with scales.
- Sweet to roam beneath a shady cliff, of course with some young lady,
 - Lalage, Neæra, Haidee, or Elaine, or Mary Ann:
- Love, you dear delusive dream you! Very sweet your victims deem you,
 - When, heard only by the seamew, they talk all the stuff one can.
- Sweet to haste, a licensed lover, to Miss Pinkerton the glover,
 - Having managed to discover what is dear Neæra's 'size':

- P'raps to touch that wrist so slender, as your tiny gift you tender,
 - And to read you're no offender in those laughing hazel eyes.
- Then to hear her call you 'Harry,' when she makes you fetch and carry—
 - O young men about to marry, what a blessed thing it is!
- To be photographed—together—cased in pretty

 Russia leather—
 - Hear her gravely doubting whether they have spoilt your honest phiz!
- Then to bring your plighted fair one first a ring

 —a rich and rare one—
 - Next a bracelet, if she'll wear one, and a heap of things beside;

- And serenely bending o'er her, to inquire if it would bore her
 - To say when her own adorer may aspire to call her bride!
- Then, the days of courtship over, with your WIFE to start for Dover
 - Or Dieppe—and live in clover evermore, whate'er befalls:
- For I've read in many a novel that, unless they've souls that grovel,
 - Folks prefer in fact a hovel to your dreary marble halls:
- To sit, happy married lovers; Phillis trifling with a plover's
 - Egg, while Corydon uncovers with a grace the Sally Lunn,

Or dissects the lucky pheasant—that, I think, were passing pleasant;

As I sit alone at present, dreaming darkly of a Dun.

THE PALACE.

THEY come, they come, with fife and drum.

And gleaming pikes and glancing banners:

Though the eyes flash, the lips are dumb;

To talk in rank would not be manners.

Onward they stride, as Britons can;

The ladies following in the Van.

Who, who be these that tramp in threes

Through sumptuous Picadilly, through
The roaring Strand, and stand at ease

At last 'neath shadowy Waterloo?

Some gallant Guild, I ween, are they;

Taking their annual holiday.

To catch the destined train—to pay

Their willing fares, and plunge within it—

Is, as in old Romaunt they say,

With them the work of half-a-minute.

Then off they're whirled, with songs and shouting

To cedared Sydenham for their outing.

I marked them light, with faces bright
As pansies or a new-coined florin,
And up the sunless stair take flight,
Close-packed as rabbits in a warren.
Honor the Brave, who in that stress
Still trod not upon Beauty's dress!

Kerchief in hand I saw them stand;

In every kerchief lurked a lunch;

When they unfurled them, it was grand

To watch bronzed men and maidens crunch

The sounding celery-stick, or ram

The knife into the blushing ham.

Dashed the bold fork through pies of pork;

O'er hard-boiled eggs the salt-spoon shook;

Leapt from its lair the playful cork:

Yet some there were, to whom the brook Seemed sweetest beverage, and for meat They chose the red root of the beet.

Then many a song, some rather long,

Came quivering up from girlish throats;

And one young man he came out strong,

And gave "The Wolf" without his notes.

While they who knew not song or ballad

Still munched, approvingly, their salad.

But ah! what bard could sing how hard,

The artless banquet o'er, they ran

Down the soft slope with daises starred

And kingcups! onward, maid with man,

They flew, to scale the breezy swing,

Or court frank kisses in the ring.

Such are the sylvan scenes that thrill

This heart! The lawns, the happy shade,
Where matrons, whom the sunbeams grill,
Stir with slow spoon their lemonade;
And maidens flirt (no extra charge)
In comfort at the fountain's marge!

Others may praise the "grand displays"

Where "fiery arch," "cascade," and "comet,'

Set the whole garden in a "blaze"!

Far, at such times, may I be from it;

Though then the public may be "lost

In wonder" at a trifling cost.

Fanned by the breeze, to puff at ease

My faithful pipe is all I crave:

And if folks rave about the "trees

Lit up by fireworks," let them rave.

Your monster fêtes, I like not these;

Though they bring grist to the lessees.

PEACE.

A STUDY.

HE stood, a worn-out City clerk—
Who'd toiled, and seen no holiday,
For forty years from dawn to dark—
Alone beside Caermarthen Bay.

He felt the salt spray on his lips;

Heard children's voices on the sands,

Up the sun's path he saw the ships

Sail on and on to other lands;

And laughed aloud. Each sight and sound

To him was joy too deep for tears;

He sat him on the beach, and bound

A blue bandanna round his ears:

And thought how, posted near his door,

His own green door on Camden Hill,

Two bands at least, most likely more,

Were mingling at their own sweet will

Verdi with Vance. And at the thought

He laughed again, and softly drew

That Morning Herald that he'd bought

Forth from his breast, and read it through

THE ARAB.

ON, on, my brown Arab, away, away!

Thou hast trotted o'er many a mile to-day,

And I trow right meagre hath been thy fare

Since they roused thee at dawn from thy straw

piled lair,

To tread with those echoless unshod feet

You weltering flats in the noontide heat,

Where no palm-tree proffers a kindly shade

And the eye never rests on a cool grass blade;

And lank is thy flank, and thy frequent cough,

Oh! it goes to my heart—but away, friend, off!

And yet, ah! what sculptor who saw thee stand,
As thou standest now, on thy Native Strand,
With the wild wind ruffling thine uncombed hair,
And thy nostril upturned to the od'rous air,
Would not woo thee to pause, till his skill might trace

At leisure the lines of that eager face;
The collarless neck and the coal-black paws
And the bit grasped tight in the massive jaws;
The delicate curve of the legs, that seem
Too slight for their burden—and, O, the gleam
Of that eye, so sombre and yet so gay!
Still away, my lithe Arab, once more away!

Nay, tempt me not, Arab, again to stay;
Since I crave neither Echo nor Fun to-day.
For thy hand is not Echoless—there they are,
Fun, Glowworm, and Echo, and Evening Star,

And thou hintest withal that thou fain would'st shine,

As I read them, these bulgy old boots of mine.
But I shrink from thee, Arab! Thou eat'st eel-pie,
Thou evermore hast at least one black eye;
There is brass on thy brow, and thy swarthy hues
Are due not to nature but handling shoes;
And the bit in thy mouth, I regret to see,
Is a bit of tobacco-pipe—Flee, child, flee!

LINES ON HEARING THE ORGAN.

GRINDER, who serenely grindest

At my door the Hundredth Psalm,

Till thou ultimately findest

Pence in thine unwashen palm:

Grinder, jocund-hearted Grinder,

Near whom Barbary's nimble son,

Poised with skill upon his hinder

Paws, accepts the proffered bun:

Dearly do I love thy grinding;

Joy to meet thee on the road

Where thou prowlest through the blinding

Dust with that stupendous load.

Neath the baleful star of Sirius,

When the postmen slowlier jog,

And the ox becomes delirious,

And the muzzle decks the dog.

Tell me by what art thou bindest

On thy feet those ancient shoon:

Tell me, Grinder, if thou grindest

Always, always out of tune.

Tell me if, as thou art buckling

On thy straps with eager claws,

Thou forecastest, inly chuckling,

All the rage that thou will cause.

Tell me if at all thou mindest

When folks flee, as if on wings,

From thee as at ease thou grindest:

Tell me fifty thousand things.

Grinder, gentle-hearted Grinder!

Ruffians who led evil lives,

Soothed by thy sweet strains are kinder

To their bullocks and their wives:

Children, when they see thy supple

Form approach, are out like shots;

Half-a-bar sets several couple

Waltzing in convenient spots;

Not with clumsy Jacks or Georges:

Unprofaned by grasp of man

Maidens speed those simple orgies,

Betsey Jane with Betsey Ann.

As they love thee in St. Giles's

Thoù art loved in Grosvenor Square:

None of those engaging smiles is Unreciprocated there.

Often, ere thou yet hast hammered

Through thy four delicious airs,

Coins are flung thee by enamoured

Housemaids upon area stairs:

E'en the ambrosial-whiskered flunkey

Eyes thy boots and thine unkempt

Beard and melancholy monkey

More in pity than contempt.

Far from England, in the sunny
South, where Anio leaps in foam,
Thou wast reared, till lack of money
Drew thee from thy vine-clad home;

And thy mate, the sinewy Jocko,

From Brazil or Afric came,

Land of simoon and sirocco—

And he seems extremely tame.

There he quaffed the undefiled

Spring, or hung with ape-like glee,

By his teeth or tail or eyelid,

To the slippery mango-tree:

There he wooed and won a dusky

Bride, of instincts like his own;

Talked of love till he was husky

In a tongue to us unknown:

Side by side 'twas theirs to ravage

The potato-ground, or cut

Down the unsuspecting savage

With the well-aimed cocoa-nut:—

Till the miscreant Stranger tore him

Screaming from his blue-faced fair;

And they flung strange raiment o'er him—

Raiment which he could not bear.

Severed from the pure embraces

Of his children and his spouse,

He must ride fantastic races

Mounted on reluctant sows:

But the heart of wistful Jocko

Still was with his ancient flame

In the nut-groves of Morocco;

Or if not it's all the same.

Grinder, winsome grinsome Grinder!

They who see thee and whose soul

Melts not at thy charms, are blinder

Than a trebly-bandaged mole:

Talk, thy music and thine ape,

Seem not to be joys for ever,

Are but brutes in human shape.

'Tis not that thy mien is stately,

"Tis not that thy tones are soft;

'Tis not that I care so greatly

For the same thing played so oft:

But I've heard mankind abuse thee;

And perhaps it's rather strange,

But I thought that I would choose thee

For encomium, as a change.

CHANGED.

I KNOW not why my soul is racked

Why I ne'er smile as was my wont:

I only know that, as a fact,

I don't.

I used to roam o'er glen and glade

Buoyant and blithe as other folk:

And not unfrequently I made

A joke.

A minstrel's fire within me burned;

I'd sing, as one whose heart must break,

Lay upon lay: I nearly learned

To shake.

All day I sang; of love, of fame,

Of fights our fathers fought of yore,

Until the thing almost became

A bore.

I cannot sing the old songs now! It is not that I deem them low;
'Tis that I can't remember how
They go.

I could not range the hills till high

Above me stood the summer moon:

And as to dancing, I could fly

As soon.

The sports, to which with boyish glee
I sprang erewhile, attract no more;
Although I am but sixty-three
Or four.

Nay, worse than that, I've seemed of late

To shrink from happy boyhood—boys

Have grown so noisy, and I hate

A noise.

By swarming up its stem for eggs:

They drive their horrid hoops between

My legs:—

It's idle to repine, I know;

I'll tell you what I'll do instead:

I'll drink my arrowroot, and go

To bed.

They fright me, when the beech is green,

FIRST LOVE.

MY earliest love, who, ere I numbered

Ten sweet summers, made my bosom thrill!

Will a swallow—or a swift, or some bird—

Fly to her and say, I love her still?

Say my life's a desert drear and arid,

To its one green spot I aye recur:

Never, never—although three times married—

Have I cared a jot for aught but her.

No, mine own! though early forced to leave you,

Still my heart was there where first we met;

In those "Lodgings with an ample sea-view,"

Which were, forty years ago, "To Let."

There I saw her first, our landlord's oldest

Little daughter. On a thing so fair

Thou, O Sun,—who (so they say) beholdest

Everything,—hast gazed, I tell thee, ne'er.

There she sat—so near me, yet remoter

Than a star—a blue-eyed bashful imp:

On her lap she held a happy bloater,

'Twixt her lips a yet more happy shrimp.

And I loved her, and our troth we plighted

On the morrow by the shingly shore:

In a fortnight to be disunited

By a bitter fate for evermore.

O my own, my beautiful, my blue-eyed!

To be young once more, and bite my thumb

At the world and all its cares with you, I'd Give no inconsiderable sum.

Hand in hand we tramped the golden seaweed,

Soon as o'er the gray cliff peeped the dawn:

Side by side, when came the hour for tea, we'd

Crunch the mottled shrimp and hairy prawn:—

Has she wedded some gigantic shrimper,

That sweet mite with whom I loved to play?

Is she girt with babes that whine and whimper,

That bright being who was always gay?

Yes—she has at least a dozen wee-things!

Yes—I see her darning corduroys,

Scouring floors, and setting out the tea-things,

For a howling herd of hungry boys,

In a home that reeks of tar and sperm-oil!

But at intervals she thinks, I know,

Of these days which we, afar from turmoil,

Spent together forty years ago.

O my earliest love, still unforgotten,

With your downcast eyes of dreamy blue!

Never, somehow, could I seem to cotton

To another as I did to you!

WANDERERS.

As o'er the hill we roamed at will,

My dog and I together,

We marked a chaise, by two bright bays,

Slow-moved along the heather:

Two bays arch-necked, with tails erect

And gold upon their blinkers;

And by their side an ass I spied;

It was a travelling tinker's.

The chaise went by, nor aught cared I;

Such things are not in my way:

I turned me to the tinker, who

Was loafing down a by-way:

I asked him where he lived—a stare

Was all I got in answer,

As on he trudged; I rightly judged

The stare said "Where I can, Sir."

I asked him if he'd take a whiff
Of 'bacco; he acceded;
He grew communicative too,
(A pipe was all he needed,)
Till of the tinker's life I think
I knew as much as he did.

[&]quot;I loiter down by thorp and town;
For any job I'm willing;
Take here and there a dusty brown,
And here and there a shilling.

[&]quot;I deal in every ware in turn,
I've rings for buddin' Sally
That sparkle like those eyes of her'n
I've liquor for the valet.

- "I steal from th' parson's strawberry-plots,
 I hide by th' squire's covers;
- I teach the sweet young housemaids what's The art of trapping lovers.
- "The things I've done 'neath moon and stars.

 Have got me into messes;

 I've seen the sky through prison bars,

 I've torn up prison dresses:
- "I've sat, I've sighed, I've gloomed, I've glanced
 With envy at the swallows
 That through the window slid, and danced
 (Quite happy) round the gallows:
- "But out again I come, and shew

 My face nor care a stiver;

 For trades are brisk and trades are slow,

 But mine goes on for ever."

Thus on he prattled like a babbling brook.

Then I, "The sun has slipt behind the hill,

And my aunt Vivian dines at half-past six."

So in all love we parted; I to the Hall,

They to the village. It was noised next noon

That chickens had been missed at Syllabub

Farm.

SAD MEMORIES.

- THEY tell me I am beautiful: they praise my silken hair,
- My little feet that silently slip on from stair to stair:
- They praise my pretty trustful face and innocent gray eye;
- Fond hands caress me oftentimes, yet would that I might die!
- Why was I born to be abhorred of man and bird and beast?
- The bulfinch marks me stealing by, and straight his song hath ceased,

- The shrewmouse eyes me shudderingly, then flees; and worse than that,
- The house-dog he flees after me—why was I born a cat?
- Men prize the heartless hound who quits dryeyed his native land;
- Who wags a mercenary tail and licks a tyrant hand.
- The leal true cat they prize not, that if e'er compelled to roam
- Still flies, when let out of the bag, precipi tately home.
- They call me crue!. Do I know if mouse or song-bird feels?
- I only know they make me light and salutary meals:
- And if, as 'tis my nature to, ere I devour I tease 'em,

- Why should a low-bred gardener's boy pursue me with a besom?
- Should china fall or chandeliers, or anything but stocks—
- Nay stocks, when they're in flowerpots—the cat expects hard knocks:
- Should ever anything be missed—milk, coals, umbrellas, brandy—
- The cat's pitched into with a boot or anything that's handy.
- I remember, I remember, how one night I fleeted by,
- And gained the blessed tiles and gazed into the cold clear sky.
- I remember, I remember, how my various lovers came;
- And there, beneath the crescent moon, played many a little game.

- They fought—by good St. Catharine, 'twas a fearsome sight to see
- The coal-black crest, the glowering orbs, of one gigantic He.
- Like bow by some tall bowman bent at Hastings or Poictiers,
- His huge back curved, till none observed a vestige of his ears:
- me stood, an ebon crescent, flouting you ivory moon;
- Then raised the pibroch of his race, the Song without a Tune:
- Gleamed his white teeth, his mammoth tail waved darkly to and fro,
- As with one complex yell he burst, all claws, upon the foe.
- It thrills me now, that final Miaow—that weird unearthly din:

- Lone maidens heard it far away, and leaped out of their skin.
- A pot-boy from his den o'erhead peeped with a scared wan face;
- Then sent a random brickbat down, which knocked me into space.
- Nine days I fell, or thereabouts: and, had we not nine lives,
- I wis I ne'er had seen again thy sausage-shop, St. Ives!
- Had I, as some cats have, nine tails, how gladly I would lick
- The hand, and person generally, of him who heaved that brick!
- For me they fill the milk-bowl up, and cull the choice sardine:
- But ah! I nevermore shall be the cat I once have been!

The memories of that fatal night they haunt me even now:

In dreams I see that rampant He, and tremble at that Miaow.

COMPANIONS.

A TALE OF A GRANDFATHER.

I KNOW not of what we pondered
Or made pretty pretence to talk,
As, her hand within mine, we wandered
Tow'rd the pool by the lime-tree walk,
While the dew fell in showers from the passion

And the blush-rose bent on her stalk

I cannot recall her figure:

Was it regal as Juno's own?

Or only a trifle bigger

Than the elves who surround the throne

Of the Faëry Queen, and are seen, I ween,

By mortals in dreams alone?

What her eyes were like I know not:

Perhaps they were blurred with tears;

And perhaps in yon skies there glow not

(On the contrary) clearer spheres.

No! as to her eyes I am just as wise

As you or the cat, my dears.

Her teeth, I presume, were "pearly":

But which was she, brunette or blonde?

Her hair, was it quaintly curly,

Or as straight as a beadle's wand?

That I failed to remark;—it was rather dark

And shadowy round the pond.

Then the hand that reposed so snugly

In mine—was it plump or spare?

Was the countenance fair or ugly?

Nay, children, you have me there!

My eyes were p'haps blurred; and besides I'd heard

That it's horribly rude to stare.

And I—was I brusque and surly?

Or oppressively bland and fond?

Was I partial to rising early?

Or why did we twain abscond,

When nobody knew, from the public view

To prowl by a misty pond?

What passed, what was felt or spoken—
Whether anything passed at all—
And whether the heart was broken
That beat under that shelt'ring shawl—
(If shawl she had on, which I doubt)—has gone,
Yes, gone from me past recall.

Was I haply the lady's suitor?

Or her uncle? I can't make out—

Ask your governess, dears, or tutor.

For myself, I'm in hopeless doubt

As to why we were there, who on earth we were

And what this is all about.

BALLAD.

THE auld wife sat at her ivied door,
(Butter and eggs and a pound of cheese)

A thing she had frequently done before;

And her spectacles lay on her aproned knees

The piper he piped on the hill-top high,

(Butter and eggs and a pound of cheese)

Till the cow said "I die," and the goose asked

" Why ;"

And the dog said nothing, but searched for fleas.

The farmer he strode through the square farmyard;

(Butter and eggs and a pound of cheese)

His last brew of ale was a trifle hard—

The connection of which with the plot one sees.

The farmer's daughter hath frank blue eyes;

(Butter and eggs and a pound of cheese)

She hears the rooks caw in the windy skies,

As she sits at her lattice and shells her peas.

The farmer's daughter hath ripe red lips;

(Butter and eggs and a pound of cheese)

If you try to approach her, away she skips

Over tables and chairs with apparent ease.

The farmer's daughter hath soft brown hair;

(Butter and eggs and a pound of cheese)

And I met with a ballad, I can't say where,

Which wholly consisted of lines like these.

PART II.

She sat with her hands 'neath her dimpled cheeks,

(Butter and eggs and a pound of cheese)

And spake not a word. While a lady speaks

There is hope, but she didn't even sneeze.

She sat, with her hands 'neath her crimson cheeks,

(Butter and eggs and a pound of cheese')

She gave up mending her father's breeks,

And let the cat roll in her best chemise.

She sat, with her hands 'neath her burning cheeks,

(Butter and eggs and a pound of cheese)

And gazed at the piper for thirteen weeks;

Then she followed him out o'er the misty leas.

Her sheep followed her, as their tails did them.

(Butter and eggs and a pound of cheese)

And this song is considered a perfect gem,

And as to the meaning, it's what you please

PRECIOUS STONES.

AN INCIDENT IN MODERN HISTORY.*

MY Cherrystones! I prize them,
No tongue can tell how much!

Each lady caller eyes them,
And madly longs to touch!

At eve I lift them down, I look
Upon them, and I cry;

Recalling how my Prince 'partook'

(Sweet word!) of cherry-pie!

To me it was an Era
In life, that Dejeuner!
They ate, they sipped Madeira
Much in the usual way.

^{*} There was a certain climax of British snobbism recorded in the Times, a few years ago, in relation to cherry stones. The Prince of Wales was eating cherries in a public garden, and as he dropped the stones, some loyal lady picked them up and pocketed them, in order, doubtless, to bequeath them as a rich legacy unto her issue."—Chambers' Journal.

Many a soft item there would be,

No doubt, upon the carte:

But one made life a heaven to me:

It was the cherry-tart.

Lightly the spoonfuls entered

That mouth on which the gaze

Of ten fair girls was centred

In rapturous amaze.

Soon that august assemblage cleared

The dish; and—as they ate—

The stones, all coyly, reappeared

On each illustrious plate.

And when His Royal Highness

Withdrew to take the air,

Waiving our natural shyness,

We swooped upon his chair.

Policemen at our garments clutched:

We mocked those feeble powers;

And soon the treasures that had touched

Exalted lips were ours!

One large one—at the moment

It seemed almost divine—

Was got by that Miss Beaumont:

And three, O three, are mine!

Yes! the three stones that rest beneath

Glass, on that plain deal shelf,

Stranger, once dallied with the teeth

Of Royalty itself.

Let Parliament abolish

Churches and States and Thrones:

With reverent hand I'll polish

Still, still my Cherrystones!

A clod—a piece of orange-peel—
An end of a cigar—

Once trod on by a Princely heel,

How beautiful they are!

Years since, I climbed Saint Michael—
His Mount:—you'll all go there
Of course, and those who like'll
Sit in Saint Michael's Chair:
For there I saw, within a frame,
The pen—O heavens! the pen—
With which a Duke had signed his name,
And other gentlemen.

"Great among geese," I faltered,

"Is she who grew that quill!"

And, Deathless Bird, unaltered

Is mine opinion still.

Yet, sometimes, as I view my three

Stones with sweet thoughtful brow,

I think there possibly might be

E'en greater geese than thou.

DISASTER.

My fondest hopes would not decay:

I never loved a tree or flower

Which was the first to fade away!

The garden, where I used to delve

Short-frocked, still yields me pinks in plenty.

The pear-tree that I climbed at twelve

I see still blossoming, at twenty.

I never nursed a dear gazelle.

But I was given a parroquet—

How I did nurse him if unwell!

He's imbecile, but lingers yet.

He's green, with an enchanting tuft;

'He melts me with his small black eye:

He'd look inimitable stuffed,

And knows it—but he will not die!

I had a kitten—I was rich
In pets—but all too soon my kitten
Became a full-sized cat, by which
I've more than once been scratched and bitten
And when for sleep her limbs she curled
One day beside her untouched plateful,
And glided calmly from the world,
I freely own that I was grateful.

And then I bought a dog—a queen!

Ah Tiny, dear departing pug!

She lives, but she is past sixteen

And scarce can crawl across the rug.

I loved her beautiful and kind;

Delighted in her pert Bow-wow:

But now she snaps if you don't mind;

'Twere lunacy to love her now.

I used to think, should e'er mishap

Betide my crumple-visaged Ti,

In shape of prowling thief, or trap,

Or coarse bull-terrier—I should die.

But ah! disasters have their use;

And life might e'en be too sunshiny:

Nor would I make myself a goose,

If some big dog should swallow Tiny.

CONTENTMENT.

AFTER THE MANNER OF HORACE.

FRIEND, there be they on whom mishap
Or never or so rarely comes,
That, when they think thereof, they snap
Derisive thumbs:

And there be they who lightly lose

Their all, yet feel no aching void;

Should aught annoy them, they refuse

To be annoyed:

And fain would I be e'en as these!

Life is with such all beer and skittles;

They are not difficult to please

About their victuals:

The trout, the grouse, the early pea,

By such, if there, are freely taken;

If not, they munch with equal glee

Their bit of bacon:

And when they wax a little gay

And chaff the public after luncheon,

If they're confronted with a stray

Policeman's truncheon,

They gaze thereat with outstretched necks,

And laughter which no threats can smother,

And tell the horror-stricken X

That he's another.

In snow-time if they cross a spot

Where unsuspected boys have slid,

They fall not down—though they would not

Mind if they did:

When the spring rose-bud which they wear

Breaks short and tumbles from its stem,

No thought of being angry e'er

Dawns upon them;

Though 'twas Jemima's hand that placed,

(As well you ween) at evening's hour,

In the loved buttonhole that chaste

And cherished flower.

And when they travel, if they find

That they have left their pocket-compass

Or Murray or thick boots behind,

They raise no rumpus,

But plod serenely on without:

Knowing it's better to endure

The evil which beyond all doubt

You cannot cure.

When for that early train they're late,

They do not make their woes the text

Of sermons in the Times, but wait

On for the next;

And jump inside, and only grin.

Should it appear that that dry wag,

The guard, omitted to put in

Their carpet-bag.

THE SCHOOLMASTER ABROAD WITH HIS SON.

O WHAT harper could worthily harp it,

Mine Edward! this wide-stretching wold

(Look out wold) with its wonderful carpet

Of emerald, purple, and gold!

Look well 'at it—also look sharp, it

Is getting so cold.

The purple is heather (erica);

The yellow, gorse—called sometimes "whin."

Cruel boys on its prickles might spike a

Green beetle as if on a pir.

You may roll in it, if you would like a

Few holes in your skin.

You wouldn't? Then think of how kind you Should be to the insects who crave Your compassion—and then, look behind you At yon barley-ears! Don't they look brave As they undulate?—(undulate, mind you, From unda, a wave.)

The noise of those sheep-bells, how faint it Sounds here—(on account of our height)! And this hillock itself-who could paint it, With its changes of shadow and light? Is it not—(never, Eddy, say "ain't it")— A marvellous sight?

Then you desolate eerie morasses, The haunts of the snipe and the hern-(I shall question the two upper classes On aquatiles, when we return)— Why, I see on them absolute masses Of filix or fern.

How it interests e'en a beginner

(Or tiro) like dear little Ned!

Is he listening? As I am a sinner

He's asleep—he is wagging his head.

Wake up! I'll go home to my dinner,

And you to your bed.

The boundless ineffable prairie;

The splendor of mountain and lake

With their hues that seem ever to vary;

The mighty pine forests which shake

In the wind, and in which the unwary

May tread on a snake;

And this wold with its heathery garment—

Are themes undeniably great.

But—although there is not any harm in't—

On their charms to a dull little varmint

Of seven or eight.

It's perhaps little good to dilate

ARCADES AMBO.

WHY are ye wandering aye 'twixt porch and porch,

Thou and thy fellow—when the pale stars fade

At dawn, and when the glowworm lights her torch,

O Beadle of the Burlington Arcade?

-Who asketh why the Beautiful was made?

A wan cloud drifting o'er the waste of blue,

The thistledown that floats above the glade,

The lilac-blooms of April—fair to view,

And naught but fair are these; and such, I ween, are you.

Yes, ye are beautiful. The young street boys

Joy in your beauty. Are ye there to bar

Their pathway to that paradise of toys,

Ribbons and rings? Who'll blame ye if ye are?

Surely no shrill and clattering crowd should mar

The dim aisle's stillness, where in noon's midglow

Trip fair-haired girls to boot-shop or bazaar;

Where, at soft eve, serenely to and fro

The sweet boy-graduates walk, nor deem the pastime slow.

And Oh! forgive me, Beadles, if I paid

Scant tribute to your worth, when first ye stood

Before me robed in broadcloth and brocade

And all the nameless grace of Beadlehood!

I would not smile at ye—if smile I could

Now as erewhile, ere I had learned to sigh:

Ah, no! I know ye beautiful and good,

And evermore will pause as I pass by,

And gaze, and gazing think, how base a thing

am I.

WAITING.

- "COME, O come," the mother prayed
 And hushed her babe: "let me behold
 Once more thy stately form arrayed
 Like autumn woods in green and gold
- "I see thy brethren come and go;

 Thy peers in stature, and in hue

 Thy rivals. Some like monarchs glow

 With richest purple: some are blue
- "As skies that tempt the swallows back;

 Or red as, seen o'er wintry seas,

 The star of storm; or barred with black

 And yellow, like the April bees.

- "Come they and go! I heed not, I.

 Yet others hail their advent, cling

 All trustful to their side, and fly

 Safe in their gentle piloting
- "To happy homes on heath or hill,

 By park or river. Still I wait

 And peer into the darkness: still

 Thou com'st not—I am desolate.
- "Hush! hark! I see a towering form

 From the dim distance slowly rolled

 It rocks like lilies in a storm,

 And O its hues are green and gold
- "It comes, it comes! Ah rest is sweet,
 And there is rest, my babe, for us!"
 She ceased, as at her very feet
 Stopped the St. John's Wood omnibus.

PLAY.

PLAY, play, while as yet it is day:
While the sweet sunlight is warm on the brae!
Hark to the lark singing lay upon lay,
While the brown squirrel eats nuts on the spray
And in the apple-leaves chatters the jay!
Play, play, even as they!
What though the cowslips ye pluck will decay,
What though the grass will be presently hay?
What though the noise that ye make should dismay
Old Mrs. Clutterbuck over the way?
Play, play, for your locks will grow gray;
Even the marbles ye sport with are clay.

Play, ay in the crowded highway:

Was it not made for you? Yea, my lad, yea.

True that the babes you were bid to convey

Home may fall out or be stolen or stray;

True that the tip-cat you toss about may

Strike an old gentleman, cause him to sway,

Stumble, and p'raps be run o'er by a dray:

Still why delay? Play, my son, play!

Barclay and Perkins, not you, have to pay.

Play, play, your sonatas in A,

Heedless of what your next neighbor may say!

Dance and be gay as a faun or a fay,

Sing like the lad in the boat on the bay;

Sing, play—if your neighbors inveigh

Feebly against you, they're lunatics, eh?

Bang, twang, clatter and clang,

Strum, thrum, upon fiddle and drum;

Neigh, bray, simply obey

All your sweet impulses, stop not or stay!

Rattle the 'bones,' hit a tin-bottomed tray

Hard with the fire-shovel, hammer away!

Is not your neighbor your natural prey?

Should he confound you, it's only in play.

LOVE.

ANST thou love me, lady?

I've not learned to woo:

Thou art on the shady

Side of sixty too.

Still I love thee dearly!

Thou hast lands and pelf:

But I love thee merely—

Merely for thyself.

Wilt thou love me, fairest?

Though thou art not fair;

And I think thou wearest

Some one else's hair.

Thou could'st love, though, dearly:

And, as I am told,

Thou art very nearly

Worth thy weight, in gold.

Dost thou love me, sweet one?

Tell me that thou dost!

Women fairly beat one,

But I think thou must.

Thou art loved so dearly;

I am plain, but then

Thou (to speak sincerely)

Art as plain again.

Love me, bashful fairy!

I've an empty purse:

And I've "moods," which vary;

Mostly for the worse.

Still, I love thee dearly:

Though I make (I feel)

Love a little queerly,

I'm as true as steel.

Love me, swear to love me

(As, you know, they do)

By yon heaven above me

And its changeless blue.

Love me, lady, dearly,

If you'll be so good;

Though I don't see clearly

On what ground you should.

Love me—ah or love me
Not, but be my bride!
Do not simply shove me
(So to speak) aside!

P'raps it would be dearly
Purchased at the price;
But a hundred yearly
Would be very nice.

THOUGHTS AT A RAILWAY STATION.

TIS but a box, of modest deal;
Directed to no matter where:

Yet down my cheek the teardrops steal—

Yes, I am blubbering like a seal;

For on it is this mute appeal,

"With care."

I am a stern cold man, and range

Apart: but those vague words "With care"

Wake yearnings in me sweet as strange:

Drawn from my moral Moated Grange,

I feel I rather like the change

Of air.

Hast thou ne'er seen rough pointsmen spy

Some simple English phrase—"With care"

Or "This side uppermost"—and cry

Like children? No? No more have I.

Yet deem not him whose eyes are dry

A bear.

But ah! what treasure hides beneath

That lid so much the worse for wear?

A ring perhaps—a rosy wreath—

A photograph by Vernon Heath—

Some matron's temporary teeth

Or hair!

Perhaps some seaman, in Peru

Or Ind, hath stowed herein a rare
Cargo of birds' eggs for his Sue;
With many a vow that he'll be true,
And many a hint that she is too—

Too fair.

80 THOUGHTS AT A RAILWAY STATION.

Perhaps—but wherefore vainly pry
Into the page that's folded there?
I shall be better by and bye:
The porters, as I sit and sigh,
Pass and repass—I wonder why
They stare!

ON THE BRINK.

I WATCHED her as she stooped to pluck

A wild flower in her hair to twine;

And wished that it had been my luck

To call her mine.

Anon I heard her rate with mad—

Mad words her babe within its cot;

And felt particularly glad

That it had not.

I knew (such subtle brains have men)

That she was uttering what she shouldn't;

And thought that I would chide, and then

I thought I wouldn't:

Few could have gazed upon that face,

Those pouting coral lips, and chided:

A Rhadamanthus, in my place,

Had done as I did:

For wrath with which our bosoms glow

Is chained there oft by Beauty's spell;

And, more than that, I did not know

The widow well.

So the harsh phrase passed unreproved.

Still mute—(O brothers, was it sin?)—

I drank, unutterably moved,

Her beauty in:

And to myself I murmured low,

As on her upturned face and dress

The moonlight fell, 'would she say No—

By chance, or Yes?'

She stood so calm, so like a ghost

Betwixt me and that magic moon,

That I already was almost

A finished coon.

But when she caught adroitly up

And soothed with smiles her little daughter;

And gave it, if I'm right, a sup

Of barley-water;

And, crooning still the strange sweet lore
Which only mothers' tongues can utter,
Snowed with deft hand the sugar o'er
Its bread-and-butter;

And kissed it clingingly—(Ah, why Don't women do these things in private?)—

I felt that if I lost her, I

Should not survive it:

And from my mouth the words nigh flew—
The past, the future, I forgat 'em:
"O! if you'd kiss me as you do
That thankless atom!"

But this thought came ere yet I spake,

And froze the sentence on my lips:

"They err, who marry wives that make

Those little slips."

It came like some familiar rhyme,

Some copy to my boyhood set;

And that's perhaps the reason I'm

Unmarried yet.

Would she have owned how pleased she was,

And told her love with widow's pride?

I never found out that, because

I never tried.

Be kind to babes and beasts and birds:

Hearts may be hard though lips are coral;

And angry words are angry words:

And that's the moral.

"FOREVER."

FOREVER! 'Tis a single word!

Our rude forefathers deemed it two

Can you imagine so absurd

A view?

Forever! What abysms of woe

The word reveals, what frenzy, what

Despair! For ever (printed so)

Did not.

It looks, ah me! how trite and tame!

It fails to sadden or appal

Or solace—it is not the same

At all.

O thou to whom it first occurred

To solder the disjoined, and dower

Thy native language with a word

Of power:

We bless thee! Whether far or near

Thy dwelling, whether dark or fair

Thy kingly brow, is neither here

Nor there.

But in men's hearts shall be thy throne,

While the great pulse of England beats:

Thou coiner of a word unknown

To Keats!

And nevermore must printer do

As men did long ago; but run

"For" into "ever," bidding two

Be one.

Forever! passion-fraught, it throws

O'er the dim page a gloom, a glamour:

It's sweet, it's strange; and I suppose

It's grammar.

Forever! 'Tis a single word!

And yet our fathers deemed it two:

Nor am I confident they erred;

Are you?

UNDER THE TREES.

"I INDER the trees!" Who but agrees That there is magic in words such as these? Promptly one sees shake in the breeze Stately lime-avenues haunted of bees: Where, looking far over buttercupped leas, Lads and "fair shes" (that is Byron, and he's An authority) lie very much at their ease; Taking their teas, or their duck and green peas, Or, if they prefer it, their plain bread and cheese: Not objecting at all though it's rather a squeeze And the glass is I daresay at 80 degrees. Some get up glees, and are mad about Ries And Sainton, and Tamberlik's thrilling high Cs;

Or if painter, hold forth upon Hunt and Maclise,
And the tone and the breadth of that landscape
of Lee's;

Or if learned, on nodes and the moon's apogees
Or, if serious, on something of AKHB's,
Or the latest attempt to convert the Chaldees;
Or in short about all things, from earthquakes to fleas.

Some sit in twos or (less frequently) threes,

With their innocent lamb's-wool or book on their knees,

And talk, and enact, any nonsense you please, As they gaze into eyes that are blue as the seas; And you hear an occasional "Harry, don't tease" From the sweetest of lips in the softest of keys, And other remarks, which to me are Chinese. And fast the time flees; till a lady-like sneeze, Or a portly papa's more elaborate wheeze,

Makes Miss Tabitha seize on her brown muffatees,

And announce as a fact that it's going to freeze, And that young people ought to attend to their Ps And their Os, and not court every form of disease: Then Tommy eats up the three last ratifias, And pretty Louise wraps her robe de cerise Round a bosom as tender as Widow Machree's, And (in spite of the pleas of her lorn vis-a-vis) Goes and wraps up her uncle—a patient of Skey's Who is prone to catch chills, like all old Bengalese: But at bedtime I trust he'll remember to grease The bridge of his nose, and preserve his rupees From the premature clutch of his fond legatees; Or at least have no fees to pay any M.D.s For the cold his niece caught sitting under the Trees.

MOTHERHOOD.

CHE laid it where the sunbeams fall Unscanned upon the broken wall. Without a tear, without a groan, She laid it near a mighty stone, Which some rude swain had haply cast Thither in sport, long ages past, And Time with mosses had o'erlaid, And fenced with many a tall grass-blade, And all about bid roses bloom And violets shed their soft perfume. There, in its cool and quiet bed, She set her burden down and fled: Nor flung, all eager to escape, One glance upon the perfect shape

That lay, still warm and fresh and fair, But motionless and soundless there.

No human eye had marked her pass Across the linden-shadowed grass Ere yet the minster clock chimed seven: Only the innocent birds of heaven-The magpie, and the rook whose nest Swings as the elm-tree waves his crest-And the lithe cricket, and the hoar And huge-limbed hound that guards the door, Looked on when, as a summer wind That, passing, leaves no trace behind, All unapparelled, barefoot all, She ran to that old ruined wall, To leave upon the chill dank earth (For ah! she never knew its worth) 'Mid hemlock rank, and fern, and ling, And dews of night, that precious thing!

And there it might have lain forlorn From morn till eve, from eve to morn: But that, by some wild impulse led, The mother, ere she turned and fled, One moment stood erect and high; Then poured into the silent sky A ery so jubilant, so strange, That Alice—as she strove to range Her rebel ringlets at her glass-Sprang up and gazed across the grass; Shook back those curls so fair to see, Clapped her soft hands in childish glee; And shrieked—her sweet face all aglow, Her very limbs with rapture shaking-"My hen has laid an egg, I know; "And only hear the noise she's making!"

MYSTERY.

I KNOW not if in other's eyes

She seemed almost divine;

But far beyond a doubt it lies

That she did not in mine.

Each common stone on which she trod

I did not deem a pearl:

Nay it is not a little odd

How I abhorred that girl.

We met at balls and picnics oft,

Or on a drawing-room stair.

My aunt invariably coughed

To warn me she was there:

At croquet I was bid remark

How queenly was her pose,

As with stern glee she drew the dark

Blue ball beneath her toes,

And made the Red fly many a foot:

Then calmly she would stoop,

Smiling an angel smile, to put

A partner through his hoop.

At archery I was made observe

That others aimed more near,

But none so tenderly could curve

The elbow round the ear:

Or if we rode, perhaps she did

Pull sharply at the curb;

But then the way in which she slid

From horseback was superb!

She'd throw off odes, again, whose flow

And fire were more than Sapphic;

Her voice was sweet, and very low;

Her singing quite seraphic:

She was a seraph, lacking wings.

That much I freely own.

But, it is one of those queer things

Whose cause is all unknown—

(Such are the wasp, the household fly,

The shapes that crawl and curl

By men called centipedes)—that I

Simply abhorred that girl.

No doubt some mystery underlies

All things which are and which are not:

And 'tis the function of the Wise

Not to expound to us what is what,

But let his consciousness play round

The matter, and at ease evolve

The problem, shallow or profound,

Which our poor wits have failed to solve,

Then tell us blandly we are fools;

Whereof we were aware before:

That truth they taught us at the schools,

And p'raps (who knows?) a little more.

—But why did we two disagree?

Our tastes, it may be, did not dovetail

All I know is, we ne'er shall be

Hero and heroine of a love-tale.

FLIGHT.

MEMORY! that which I gave thee
To guard in thy garner yestreen—
Little deeming thou e'er could'st behave thee
Thus basely—hath gone from thee clean!
Gone, fled, as ere autumn is ended
The yellow leaves flee from the oak—
I have lost it for ever, my splendid Original joke.

What was it? I know I was brushing

My hair when the notion occurred:

I know that I felt myself blushing

As I thought 'How supremaly absurd!

- 'How they'll hammer on floor and on table

 'As its drollery dawns on them—how

 'They will quote it'—I wish I were able

 To quote it just now.
- I had thought to lead up conversation

 To the subject—it's easily done—

 Then let off, as an airy creation

 Of the moment, that masterly pun.

 Let it off, with a flash like a rocket's;

 In the midst of a dazzled conclave,

 While I sat, with my hands in my pockets,

 The only one grave.
- I had fancied young Titterton's chuckles,
 And old Bottleby's hearty guffaws
 As he drove at my ribs with his knuckles,
 His mode of expressing applause:

While Jean Bottleby—queenly Miss Janet—
Drew her handkerchief hastily out,
In fits at my slyness—what can it
Have all been about?

I know 'twas the happiest, quaintest
Combination of pathos and fun:
But I've got no idea—the faintest—
Of what was the actual pun.
I think it was somehow connected
With something I'd recently read—
Or heard—or perhaps recollected
On going to bed.

What had I been reading? The Standard
'Double Bigamy'; 'Speech of the Mayor.

And later—eh? yes! I meandered

Through some chapters of Vanity Fair.

How it fuses the grave with the festive!

Yet e'en there, there is nothing so fine—

So playfully, subtly suggestive—

As that joke of mine.

Did it hinge upon 'parting asunder'?

No, I don't part my hair with my brush.

Was the point of it 'hair'? Now I wonder!

Stop a bit—I shall think of it—hush!

There's hare, a wild animal—Stuff!

It was something a deal more recondite:

Of that I am certain enough;

And of nothing beyond it.

Hair—locks / There are probably many Good things to be said about those Give me time—that's the best guess of any—
'Lock' has several meanings, one knows.
Iron locks—iron-gray locks—a 'deadlock'—
That would set up an every-day wit:

Then of course there's the obvious 'wedlock';

But that wasn't it.

No! mine was a joke for the ages;

Full of intricate meaning and pith;

A feast for your scholars and sages—

How it would have rejoiced Sidney Smith

'Tis such thoughts that ennoble a mortal;

And, singling him out from the herd,

Fling wide immortality's portal—

But what was the word?

Ah me! 'tis a bootless endeavor.

As the flight of a bird of the air

Is the flight of a joke—you will never

See the same one again, you may swear.

'Twas my first-born, and O how I prized it!

My darling, my treasure, my own!

This brain and none other devised it—

And now it has flown.

ON THE BEACH.

LINES BY A PRIVATE TUTOR.

WHEN the young Augustus Edward

Has reluctantly gone bedward

(He's the urchin I am privileged to teach),

From my left-hand waistcoat pocket

I extract a battered locket

And I commune with it, walking on the beach

I had often yearned for something

That would love me, e'en a dumb thing;

But such happiness seemed always out of reach.

Little boys are off like arrows

With their little spades and barrows,

When they see me bearing down upon the beach;

And although I'm rather handsome,

Tiny babes, when I would dance 'em

On my arm, set up so horrible a screech

That I pitch them to their nurses

With (I fear me) muttered curses,

And resume my lucubrations on the beach.

And the rabbits won't come nigh me,

And the gulls observe and fly me,

And I doubt, upon my honor, if a leech

Would stick on me as on others,

And I know if I had brothers

They would cut me when we met upon the beach

So at last I bought this trinket.

For (although I love to think it)

'Twasn't given me, with a pretty little speech:

No! I bought it of a pedlar,

Brown and wizened as a medlar,

Who was hawking odds and ends about the beach.

But I've managed, very nearly,

To believe that I was dearly

Loved by Somebody, who (blushing like a peach)

Flung it o'er me saying 'Wear it

For my sake'—and, I declare, it

Seldom strikes me that I bought it on the beach.

I can see myself revealing
Unsuspected depths of feeling,
As, in tones that half upbraid and half beseech,
I aver with what delight I
Would give anything—my right eye—
For a souvenir of our stroll upon the beach.

O that eye that never glistened

And that voice to which I've listened

But in fancy, how I dote upon them each!

How, regardless what o'clock it

Is, I pore upon that locket,

Which does not contain her portrait, on the beach!

As if something were inside it

I laboriously hide it,

And a rather pretty sermon you might preach

Upon Fantasy, selecting

For your 'instance' the affecting

Tale of me and my proceedings on the beach.

I depict her, ah, how charming!

I portray myself alarming

Her by swearing I would 'mount the deadly breach,

Or engage in any scrimmage

For a glimpse of her sweet image,

Or her shadow, or her footprint on the beach.

And I'm ever ever seeing

My imaginary Being,

And I'd rather that my marrow-bones should bleach

In the winds, than that a cruel

Fate should snatch from me the jewel

Which I bought for one-and-sixpence on the beach.

LOVERS, AND A REFLECTION.

IN moss-prankt dells which the sunbeams flatter

(And heaven it knoweth what that may mean;

Meaning, however, is no great matter)

Where woods are a-tremble, with rifts atween;

Thro' God's own heather we wonned together,

I and my Willie (O love my love):

I need hardly remark it was glorious weather,

Boats were curtseying ising, bowing,

(Boats in that climate are so polite,)

And sands were a ribbon of green endowing,

And O the sun-dazzle on bark and bight!

Thro' the rare red heather we danced together,

(O love my Willie!) and smelt for flowers:

I must mention again it was gorgeous weather,

Rhymes are so scarce in this world of ours:—

By rises that flushed with their purple favors,

Thro' becks that brattled o'er grasses sheen,

We walked or waded, we two young shavers,

Thanking our stars we were both so green.

We journeyed in parallels, I and Willie,

In fortunate parallels! Butterflies,

Hid in weltering shadows of daffodilly

Or marjoram, kept making peacock eyes:

Song-birds darted about, some inky

As coal, some snowy (I ween) as curds;

Or rosy as pinks, or as roses pinky—

They reck of no eerie To-come, those birds!

110 . LOVERS, AND A REFLECTION.

But they skim over bents which the mill-stream washes,

Or hang in the lift 'neath a white cloud's hem;

They need no parasols, no goloshes;

And good Mrs. Trimmer she feedeth them.

Then we thrid God's cowslips (as erst His heather)

That endowed the wan grass with their golden blooms;

And snapt—(it was perfectly charming weather)—
Our fingers at Fate and her goddess-glooms:

And Willie 'gan sing—(O, his notes were fluty;

Wafts fluttered them out to the white-winged sea)—

Something made up of rhymes that have done much duty,

Rhymes (better to put it) of 'ancientry':

Bowers of flowers encounted showers

In William's carol—(O love my Willie!)

Then he bade sorrow borrow from blithe to-morrow

I quite forget what—say a daffodilly:

A nest in a hollow, "with buds to follow,"

I think occurred next in his nimble strain;

And clay that was "kneaden" of course in Eden—

A rhyme most novel, I do maintain:

Mists, bones, the singer himself, love-stories,

And all least furlable things got "furled;"

Not with any design to conceal their glories,

But simply and solely to rhyme with "world.'

O if billows and pillows and hours and flowers,

And all the brave rhymes of an elder day,

112

Could be furled together, this genial weather,

And carted, or carried on wafts away,

Nor ever again trotted out—ay me!

How much fewer volumes of verse there'd be!

THE COCK AND THE BULL.

VOU see this pebble-stone? It's a thing I bought Of a bit of a chit of a boy i' the mid o' the day— I like to dock the smaller parts-o'-speech, As we curtail the already cur-tailed cur (You catch the paronomasia, play o' words?) Did, rather, i' the pre-Landseerian days. Well, to my muttons. I purchased the concern, And clapt it i' my poke, and gave for same By way, to-wit, of barter or exchange— 'Chop' was my snickering dandiprat's own term-One shilling and fourpence, current coin o' the realm. O-n-e one and f-o-u-r four

Pence, one and fourpence—you are with me, Sir?—What hour it skills not: ten or eleven o' the clock, One day (and what a roaring day it was!)

In February, eighteen sixty nine,

Alexandrina Victoria, Fidei

Hm—hm—how runs the jargon? being on throne.

Such, sir, are all the facts, succinctly put,

The basis or substratum—what you will—

Of the impending eighty thousand lines.

"Not much in 'em either," quoth perhaps simple

Hodge.

But there's a superstructure. Wait a bit.

Mark first the rationale of the thing:

Hear logic rivel and levigate the deed.

That shilling—and for matter o' that, the pence—

I had o' course upo' me—wi' me say—

(Mecum's the Latin, make a note o' that)

When I popped pen i' stand, blew snout, scratched ear,

Sniffed—tch!—at snuff-box; tumbled up, he-heed, Haw-hawed (not hee-hawed, that's another guess thing:)

Then fumbled at, and stumbled out of, door, I shoved the door ope wi' my omoplat; And in vestibulo, i' the entrance-hall, Donned galligaskins, antigropeloes, And so forth; and, complete with hat and gloves, One on and one a-dangle i, my hand, And ombrifuge (Lord love you!), case o' rain, I flopped forth, 'sbuddikins! on my own ten toes, (I do assure you there be ten of them,) And went clump-clumping up hill and down dale To find myself o' the sudden i' front o' the boy. Put case I hadn't 'em on me, could I ha' bought This sort-o'-kind-o'-what-you-might-call toy, This pebble-thing, o' the boy-thing? Q. E. D.

That's proven without aid from mumping Pope,
Sleek porporate or bloated Cardinal.
(Isn't it, old Fatchaps? You're in Euclid now.)
So, having the shilling—having i' fact a lot—
And pence and halfpence, ever so many o' them,
I purchased, as I think I said before,
The pebble (lapis, lapidis, -di, -dem, -de—
What nouns 'crease short i' the genitive, Fatchaps, eh?)

O' the boy, a bare-legged beggarly son of a gun, For one and fourpence. Here we are again.

Now Law steps in, big-wigged, voluminous-jawed;
Investigates and re-investigates.

Was the transaction illegal? Law shakes head.
Perpend, sir, all the bearings of the case.

At first the coin was mine, the chattel his. But now (by virtue of the said exchange And barter) vice versa all the coin,

Per juris operationem, vests

I' the boy and his assigns till ding o' doom;

(In sæcula sæculo-o-o-orum;

I think I hear the Abate mouth out that.)

To have and hold the same to him and them ...

Confer some idiot on Conveyancing.

Whereas the pebble and every part thereof,

And all that appertaineth thereunto,

Or shall, will, may, might, can, could, would, or should,

(Subaudi cætera—clap we to the close—
For what's the good of law in a case o' the kind)
Is mine to all intents and purposes.
This settled, I resume the thread o' the tale.

Now for a touch o' the vendor's quality.

He says a gen'lman bought a pebble of him,

(This pebble i' sooth, sir, which I hold i' my hand)—

And paid for't, like a gen'lman, on the nail.

'Did I o'ercharge him a ha'penny? Devil a bit.

Fiddlestick's end! Get out, you blazing ass!

Gabble o' the goose. Don't bugaboo-baby me!

Go double or quits? Yah! tittup! what's the odds?'

—There's the transaction viewed i' the vendor's light.

Next ask that dumpled hag, stood snuffling by,
With her three frowsy-blowsy brats o' babes,
The scum o' the kennel, cream o' the filth-heap—
Faugh!

Aie, aie, aie! ὀτοτοτοτοτοί,

('Stead which we blurt out Hoighty-toighty now)-

And the baker and candlestick-maker, and Jack and Gill,

Bleared Goody this and queasy Gaffer that.

Ask the schoolmaster. Take schoolmaster first.

He saw a gentleman purchase of a lad A stone, and pay for it rite, on the square, And carry it off per saltum, jauntily, Propria quæ maribus, gentleman's property now (Agreeably to the law explained above), In proprium usum, for his private ends. The boy he chucked a brown i' the air, and bit I' the face the shilling: heaved a thumping stone At a lean hen that ran cluck-clucking by, (And hit her, dead as nail i' post o' door,) Then abiit—what's the Ciceronian phrase?— Excessit, evasit, erupit-off slogs boy; Off in three flea-skips. Hactenus, so far, So good, tam bene. Bene, satis, male,-Where was I? who said what of one in a quag? I did once hitch the syntax into verse: Verbum personale, a verb personal, Concordat—ay, 'agrees,' old Fatchaps—cum Nominative, with its nominative,

Genere, i' point o' gender, numero,
O' number, et persona, and person. Ut,
Instance: Sol ruit, down flops sun, et and,
Montes umbrantur, snuffs out mountains. Pah!
Excuse me, sir, I think I'm going mad.
You see the trick on't though, and can yourself
Continue the discourse ad libitum.
It takes up about eighty thousand lines,
A thing imagination boggles at:
And might, odds-bobs, sir! in judicious hands,
Extend from here to Mesopotamy.

VISIONS.

" She was a phantom," etc.

- IN lone Glenartney's thickets lies couched the lordly stag,
- The dreaming terrier's tail forgets its customary wag;
- And plodding ploughmen's weary steps insensibly grow quicker,
- As broadening casements light them on toward home, or home-brewed liquor.
- It is in brief the evening—that pure and pleasant time,
- When stars break into splendor, and poets into rhyme;

- When in the glass of Memory the forms of loved ones shine—
- And when, of course, Miss Goodchild's is prominent in mine.
- Miss Goodchild!—Julia Goodchild!—how graciously you smiled
- Upon my childish passion once, yourself a fairhaired child:
- When I was (no doubt) profiting by Dr. Crabb's instruction,
- And sent those streaky lollipops home for your fairy suction!
- "She wore" her natural "roses, the night when first we met"—
- Her golden hair was gleaming 'neath the coercive net:
- "Her brow was like the snawdrift," her step was like Queen Mab's,

- And gone was instantly the heart of every boy at Crabb's.
- The parlor-boarder chasséed tow'rds her on graceful limb;
- The onyx deck'd his bosom—but her smiles were not for him:
- With me she danced—till drowsily her eyes "began to blink,"
- And I brought raisin wine, and said, "Drink, pretty creature, drink!"
- And evermore, when winter comes in his garb of snows,
- And the returning school-boy is told how fast he grows;
- Shall I—with that soft hand in mine—enact ideal Lancers,
- And dream I hear demure remarks, and make impassioned answers:—

- I know that never, never may her love for me return—
- At night I muse upon the fact with undisguised concern—
- But ever shall I bless that day: I don't bless, as a rule,
- The days I spent at "Dr. Crabb's Preparatory School."
- And yet we too may meet again—(Be still, my throbbing heart!)
- Now rolling years have weaned us from jam and raspberry-tart.
- One night I saw a vision—'Twas when musk-roses bloom,
- I stood—we stood—upon a rug, in a sumptuous dining-room:
- One hand clasped hers—one easily reposed upon my hip—

- And "Bless ye!" burst abruptly from Mr. Goodchild's lip:
- I raised my brimming eye, and saw in hers an answering gleam—
- My heart beat wildly—and I woke, and lo! it was a dream.

GEMINI AND VIRGO.

SOME vast amount of years ago,

Ere all my youth had vanish'd from me,

A boy it was my lot to know,

Whom his familiar friends called Tommy.

I love to gaze upon a child;

A young bud bursting into blossom;

Artless, as Eve yet unbeguiled,

And agile as a young opossum:

And such was he. A calm-brow'd lad,

Yet mad, at moments, as a hatter:

Why hatters as a race are mad

I never knew, nor does it matter.

He was what nurses call a "limb;"

One of those small misguided creatures,

Who, tho' their intellects are dim,

Are one too many for their teachers:

And, if you asked of him to say

What twice 10 was, or 3 times 7,

He'd glance (in quite a placid way)

From heaven to earth, from earth to heaven;

And smile, and look politely round,

To catch a casual suggestion;

But make no effort to propound

Any solution of the question.

And so not much esteemed was he

Of the authorities: and therefore

He fraternized by chance with me,

Needing a somebody to care for.

And three fair summers did we twain

Live (as they say) and love together;

And bore by turns the wholesome cane

Till our young skins became as leather:

And carved our names on every desk,

And tore our clothes, and inked our collars;

And looked unique and picturesque,

But not, it may be, model scholars.

We did much as we chose to do;

We'd never heard of Mrs. Grundy;

All the theology we knew

Was that we mightn't play on Sunday;

And all the general truths, that cakes

Were to be bought at four a penny,

And that excruciating aches

Resulted if we ate too many:

And seeing ignorance is bliss,

And wisdom consequently folly,

The obvious result is this—

That our two lives were very jolly.

At last the separation came.

Real love at that time was the fashion;

And by a horrid chance, the same

Young thing was, to us both, a passion.

Old Poser snorted like a horse:

His feet were large, his hands were pimply,

His manner, when excited, coarse:—

But Miss P. was an angel simply.

She was a blushing gushing thing;

All—more than all—my fancy painted;

Once—when she helped me to a wing

Of goose—I thought I should have fainted.

The people said that she was blue:

But I was green, and loved her dearly.

She was approaching thirty-two;

And I was then eleven, nearly.

I did not love as others do;

(None ever did that I've heard tell of;)

My passion was a byword through

The town she was, of course, the belle of:

Oh sweet—as to the toil-worn man

The far-off sound of rippling river;

As to cadets in Hindostan

The fleeting remnant of their liver—

To me was Anna; dear as gold

That fills the miser's sunless coffers;

As to the spinster, growing old,

The thought—the dream—that she had offers.

I'd sent her little gifts of fruit;

I'd written lines to her as Venus;

I'd sworn unflinchingly to shoot

The man who dared to come between us:

And it was you, my Thomas, you,

The friend in whom my soul confided,

Who dared to gaze on her—to do,

I may say, much the same as I did.

One night, I saw him squeeze her hand;

There was no doubt about the matter;

I said he must resign, or stand

My vengeance—and he chose the latter.

We met, we 'planted' blows on blows:

We fought as long as we were able:

My rival had a bottle-nose,

And both my speaking eyes were sable,

When the school-bell cut short our strife

Miss P. gave both of us a plaister;

And in a week became the wife

Of Horace Nibbs, the writing-master.

I loved her then—I'd love her still,

Only one must not love Another's:

But thou and I, my Tommy, will,

When we again meet, meet as brothers.

It may be that in age one seeks

Peace only: that the blood is brisker in boys' veins, than in theirs whose cheeks

Are partially obscured by whisker;

Or that the growing ages steal

The memories of past wrongs from us.

But this is certain—that I feel

Most friendly unto thee, oh Thomas!

And wheresoe'er we meet again, '
On this or that side the equator,

If I've not turned teetotaller then,

And have wherewith to pay the waiter,

To thee I'll drain the modest cup,

Ignite with thee the mild Havannah;

And we will waft, while liquoring up,

Forgiveness to the heartless Anna.

" There stands a city."

INGOLDSBY,

YEAR by year do Beauty's daughters,
In the sweetest gloves and shawls,
Troop to taste the Chattenham waters,
And adorn the Chattenham balls.

'Nulla non donanda lauru,'

Is that city: you could not,

Placing England's map before you,

Light on a more favor'd spot.

If no clear translucent river

Winds 'neath willow-shaded paths,

"Children and adults" may shiver

All day in "Chalybeate baths":

And on every side the painter

Looks on wooded vale and plain

And on fair hills, faint and fainter

Outlined as they near the main.

There I met with him, my chosen

Friend—the 'long' but not 'stern swell,"*

Faultless in his hats and hosen,

Whom the Johnian lawns know well:—

Oh my comrade, ever valued!

Still I see your festive face;

Hear you humming of "the gal you'd

Left behind" in massive bass:

See you sit with that composure

On the eelest of backs,

That the novice would suppose your

Manly limbs encased in wax:

^{* &}quot;The kites know well the long stern swell

That bids the Romans close."—MACAULAY.

Or anon, when evening lent her

Tranquil light to hill and vale,

Urge, towards the table's centre,

With unerring hand, the squail.

Ah delectablest of summers!

How my heart—that "muffled drum"

Which ignores the aid of drummers—

Beats, as back thy memories come!

O among the dancers peerless,

Fleet of foot, and soft of eye!

Need I say to you that cheerless

Must my days be till I die?

At my side she mashed the fragrant

Strawberry; lashes soft as silk

Drooped o'er saddened eyes, when vagrant

Gnats sought watery graves in milk:

Then we danced, we walked together;

Talked—no doubt on trivial topics;

Such as Blondin, or the weather,

Which "recalled us to the tropics."

But—O in the deuxtemps peerless,

Fleet of foot, and soft of eye!—

Once more I repeat, that cheerless

Shall my days be till I die.

And the lean and hungry raven,

As he picks my bones, will start

To observe 'M. N.' engraven

Neatly on my blighted heart.

STRIKING.

IT was a railway passenger,

And he lept out jauntilie.

"Now up and bear, thou stout porter,

My two chattels to me.

"Bring hither, bring hither my bag so red,
And portmanteau so brown:

(They lie in the van, for a trusty man
He labelled them London town:)

"And fetch me eke a cabman bold,

That I may be his fare, his fare;

And he shall have a good shilling,

If by two of the clock he do me bring

To the Terminus, Euston Square."

"Now,—so to thee the saints alway,
Good gentlemen, give luck,—
As never a cab may I find this day,
For the cabman wights have struck:
And now, I wis, at the Red Post Inn,
Or else at the Dog and Duck,
Or at Unicorn Blue, or at Green Griffin,
The nut-brown ale and the fine old gin
Right pleasantly they do suck."

"Now rede me aright, thou stout porter,

What were it best that I should do:

For woe is me, an' I reach not there

Or ever the clock strike two."

"I have a son, a lytel son;

Fleet is his foot as the wild roebuck's:

Give him a shilling, and eke a brown,

And he shall carry thy fardels down

To Euston, or half over London town,

On one of the station trucks."

Then forth in a hurry did they twain fare,
The gent, and the son of the stout porter,
Who fled like an arrow, nor turned a hair,
Through all the mire and muck:
"A ticket, a ticket, sir clerk, I pray:
For by two of the clock must I needs away."
"That may hardly be," the clerk did say,
"For indeed—the clocks have struck."

VOICES OF THE NIGHT.

" The tender Grace of a day that is dead."

THE dew is on the roses,

The owl hath spread her wing;

And vocal are the noses

Of peasant and of king:

"Nature" in short "reposes";

But I do no such thing.

Pent in my lonesome study

Here I must sit and muse;

Sit till the morn grows ruddy,

Till, rising with the dews,

"Jeameses" remove the muddy

Spots from their masters' shoes.

Yet are sweet faces flinging

Their witchery o'er me here:

I hear sweet voices singing

A song as soft, as clear,

As (previously to stinging)

A gnat sings round one's ear.

Does Grace draw young Apollo's

In blue mustachios still?

Does Emma tell the swallows

How she will pipe and trill,

When, some fine day, she follows

Those birds to the window-sill?

And oh! has Albert faded
From Grace's memory yet?

Albert, whose "brow was shaded
By locks of glossiest jet,"

Whom almost any lady'd

Have given her eyes to get?

Does not her conscience smite her

For one who hourly pines,

Thinking her bright eyes brighter

Than any star that shines—

I mean of course the writer

Of these pathetic lines?

Who knows? As quoth Sir Walter,

"Time rolls his ceaseless course:

"The Grace of yore" may alter—

And then, I've one resource:

I'll invest in a bran-new halter,

And- I'll perish without remorse.

LINES SUGGESTED BY THE FOURTEENTH OF FEBRUARY.

ERE the morn the East has crimsoned,
When the stars are twinkling there,
(As they did in Watts' Hymns, and Made him wonder what they were:)
When the forest-nymphs are beading
Fern and flower with silvery dew—
My infallible proceeding
Is to wake, and think of you.

When the hunter's ringing bugle

Sounds farewell to field and copse,

And I sit before my frugal

Meal of gravy-soup and chops:

When (as Gray remarks) "the moping

Owl doth to the moon complain,"

And the hour suggests eloping—

Fly my thoughts to you again.

May my dreams be granted never?

Must I aye endure affliction

Rarely realized, if ever,

In our wildest works of fiction?

Madly Romeo loved his Juliet;

Copperfield began to pine

When he hadn't been to school yet—

But their loves were cold to mine.

Give me hope, the least, the dimmest,

Ere I drain the poisoned cup:

Tell me I may tell the chymist

Nor to make that arsenic up!

Else the heart must cease to throb in

This my breast; and when, in tones

Hushed, men ask, "Who killed Cock Robin?"

They'll be told, "Miss Clara J——s."

A, B, C.

A is an Angel of blushing eighteen:

B is the Ball where the Angel was seen:

C is her Chaperon, who cheated at cards:

D is the Deuxtemps, with Frank of the Guards:

E is her Eye, killing slowly but surely:

F is the Fan, whence it peeped so demurely:

G is the Glove of superlative kid:

H is the Hand which it spitefully hid:

I is the Ice which the fair one demanded:

J is the Juvenile, that dainty who handed:

K is the Kerchief, a rare work of art:

L is the Lace which composed the chief part .

M is the old Maid who watch'd the chits dance:

N is the Nose she turned up at each glance:

- O is the Olga (just then in its prime):
- P is the Partner who wouldn't keep time:
- Q 's a Quadrille, put instead of the Lancers:
- R the Remonstrances made by the dancers:
- S is the Supper, where all went in pairs:
- T is the Twaddle they talked on the stairs:
- U is the Uncle who "thought we'd be goin':"
- V is the Voice which his niece replied 'No' in:
- W is the Waiter, who sat up till eight:
- X is his Exit, not rigidly straight:
- Y is a Yawning fit caused by the Ball:
- Z stands for Zero, or nothing at all.

TO MRS. GOODCHILD.

THE night-wind's shriek is pitiless and hollow,
The boding bat flits by on sullen wing,
And I sit desolate, like that "one swallow"
Who found (with horror) that he'd not brought spring:

Lonely he who erst with venturous thumb Drew from its pie-y lair the selitary plum.

And to my gaze the phantoms of the Past,

The cherished fictions of my boyhood, rise:

I see Red Ridinghood observe, aghast,

The fixed expression of her grandam's eyes;

I hear the fiendish chattering and chuckling

Which those misguided fowls raised at the Ugly Duckling.

The House that Jack built—and the Malt that lay

Within the House—the Rat that ate the Malt—
The Cat, that in that sanguinary way

Punished the poor thing for its venial fault—
The Worrier-Dog—the Cow with crumpled horn—
And then—ah yes! and then—the Maiden all forlorn!

O Mrs. Gurton—(may I call thee Gammer?)

Thou more than mother to my infant mind!

I loved thee better than I loved my grammar—

I used to wonder why the Mice were blind,

And who was gardener to Mistress Mary,

"Tota contraria," an "Arundo Cami"

Has phrased it—which is possibly explicit,

And what-I don't know still-was meant by

"quite contrary."

Ingenious certainly—but all the same I

Still ask, when coming on the word, 'What is it?'

There were more things in Mrs. Gurton's eye, Mayhap, than are dreamed of in our philosophy.

No doubt the Editor of 'Notes and Queries'
Or 'Things not generally known' could tell
The word's real force—my only lurking fear is
That the great Gammer "didna ken hersel":
(I've precedent, yet feel I owe apology
For pa sing in this way to Scottish phraseology).

Also, dear Madam, I must ask your pardon

For making this unwarranted digression,

Starting (I think) from Mistress Mary's garden:

And beg to send, with every expression

Of personal esteem, a Book of Rhymes,

For Master G. to read at miscellaneous times.

There is a youth, who keeps a 'crumpled Horn,'

(Living next me, upon the self-same story,)

And ever, 'twixt the midnight and the morn,

He solaces his soul with Annie Laurie.

The tune is good; the habit p'raps romantic;
But tending, if pursued, to drive one's neighbors frantic.

And now,—at this unprecedented hour,

When the young Dawn is "trampling out the stars,"—

I hear that youth—with more than usual power

And pathos — struggling with the first few bars.

And I do think the amateur cornopean

Should be put down by law—but that's perhaps

Utopian.

Who knows what "things unknown" I might have "bodied

Forth," if not checked by that absurd Too-too?

But don't I know that when my friend has plodded

Through the first verse, the second will ensue?

Considering which, dear Madam, I will merely

Send the before-named book—and am yours

most sincerely.

ODE—'ON A DISTANT PROSPECT' OF MAKING A FORTUNE.

Now the "rosy morn appearing"

Floods with light the dazzled heaven,

And the school-boy groans on hearing

That eternal clock strike seven:

Now the wagoner is driving

Tow'rds the fields his clattering wain;

Now the blue-bottle, reviving,

Buzzes down his native pane.

But to me the morn is hateful:

Wearily I stretch my legs,

Dress, and settle to my plateful

Of (perhaps inferior) eggs.

154 ODE-'ON A DISTANT PROSPECT'

Yesterday Miss Crump, by message,

Mentioned "rent," which "p'raps I'd pay;'

And I have a dismal presage

That she'll call, herself, to-day.

Once, I breakfasted off rosewood,

Smoked through silver-mounted pipes—
Then how my patrician nose would

Turn up at the thought of "swipes!"
Ale,—occasionally claret,—

Graced my luncheon then;—and now
I drink porter in a garret,

To be paid for heaven knows how.

When the evening shades are deepened,

And I doff my hat and gloves,

No sweet bird is there to "cheep and Twitter twenty million loves;"

No dark-ringleted canaries

Sing to me of "hungry foam;"

No imaginary "Marys"

Call fictitious "cattle home."

Araminta, sweetest, fairest!

Solace once of every ill!!

How I wonder if thou bearest

Mivins in remembrance still!

If that Friday night is banished

From a once retentive mind,

When the others somehow vanished,

And we two were left behind:—

When in accents low, yet thrilling,

I did all my love declare;

Mentioned that I'd not a shilling—

Hinted 'that we need not care:

And complacently you listened

To my somewhat long address,

And I thought the tear that glistened

In the downdropt eye said Yes.

156 ODE-'ON A DISTANT PROSPECT.'

Once, a happy child, I carolled

O'er green lawns the whole day through,

Not unpleasingly apparelled

In a tightish suit of blue:—

What a change has now passed o'er me!

Now with what dismay I see

Every rising morn before me!

Goodness gracious patience me!

And I'll prowl, a moodier Lara,

Thro' the world, as prowls the bat,

And habitually wear a

Cypress wreath around my hat:

And when Death snuffs out the taper

Of my Life (as soon he must),

I'll send up to every paper,

"Died, T Mivins; of disgust."

ISABEL.

NOW o'er the landscape crowd the deepening shades,

And the shut lily cradles not the bee:

The red deer couches in the forest glades,

And faint the echoes of the slumberous sea:

And ere I rest, one prayer I'll breathe for thee,

The sweet Egeria of my lonely dreams:

Lady, forgive, that ever upon me

Thoughts of thee linger, as the soft starbeams

Linger on Merlin's rock, or dark Sabrina's streams.

On gray Pilatus once we loved to stray,

And watch far off the glimmering roselight break

O'er the dim mountain-peaks, ere yet one ray

Pierced the deep bosom of the mist-clad lake.

Oh! who felt not new life within him wake,

And his pulse quicken, and his spirit burn—

(Save one we wot of, whom the cold did make Feel "shooting pains in every joint in turn,")

When first we saw the sun gild thy green shores

Lucerne?

And years have past, and I have gazed once more
On blue lakes glistening amid mountains blue;
And all seemed sadder, lovelier than before—
For all awakened memories of you.
Oh! had I had you by my side, in lieu
Of that red matron, whom the flies would worry,
(Flies in those parts unfortunately do,)
Who walked so slowly, talked in such a hurry,
And with such wild contempt for stops and Lindley
Murray!

O Isabel, the brightest, heavenliest theme

That ere drew dreamer on to poesy,

Since "Peggy's locks" made Burns neglect his team,

And Stella's smile lured Johnson from his tea—

I may not tell thee what thou art to me!

But ever dwells the soft voice in my ear,

Whispering of what Time is, what Man might be,

Would he but "do the duty that lies near,"

And cut clubs, cards, champagne, balls, billiardrooms, and beer.

LINES SUGGESTED BY THE FOURTEENTH OF FEBRUARY

DARKNESS succeeds to twilight:
Through lattice and through skylight
The stars no doubt, if one looked out,
Might be observed to shine:
And sitting by the embers
I elevate my members
On a stray chair, and then and there
Commence a Valentine.

Yea! by St. Valentinus,

Emma shall not be minus

What all young ladies, whate'er their grade is

Expect to-day no doubt:

Emma the fair, the stately—

Whom I beheld so lately,

Smiling beneath the snow-white wreath
Which told that she was "out."

Wherefore fly to her, swallow,

And mention that I'd "follow,"

And "pipe and trill," et cetera, till

I died, had I but wings:

Say the North's "true and tender,"

The South an old offender;

And hint in fact, with your well-known tact,

All kinds of pretty things.

Say I grow hourly thinner,
Simply abhor my dinner—
Tho' I do try and absorb some viand
Each day, for form's sake merely;
And ask her, when all's ended,
And I am found extended,
With vest blood-spotted and cut carotid,
To think on Her's sincerely.

"HIC VIR, HIC EST."

FTEN, when o'er tree and turret,

Eve a dying radiance flings,

By that ancient pile I linger,

Known familiarly as "King's."

And the ghosts of days departed

Rise, and in my burning breast

All the undergraduate wakens,

And my spirit is at rest.

What, but a revolting fiction,

Seems the actual result

Of the Census's inquiries

Made upon the 15th ult.?

Still my soul is in its boyhood;

Nor of year or changes recks

Though my scalp is almost hairless,

And my figure grows convex.

Backward moves the kindly dial;

And I'm numbered once again

With those noblest of their species

Called emphatically 'Men':

Loaf, as I have loafed aforetime,

Through the streets, with tranquil mind,

And a long-backed fancy-mongrel

Trailing casually behind:

Past the Senate-house I saunter,

Whistling with an easy grace;

Past the cabbage-stalks that carpet

Still the beefy market-place;

Poising evermore the eye-glass

In the light sarcastic eye,

Lest, by chance, some breezy nursemaid

Pass, without a tribute, by.

Once, an unassuming Freshman,

Thro' these wilds I wandered on,
Seeing in each house a College,

Under every cap a Don:

Each perambulating infant

Had a magic in its squall,

For my eager eye detected

Senior Wranglers in them all.

By degrees my education
Grew, and I became as others;
Learned to blunt my moral feelings
By the aid of Bacon Brothers;
Bought me tiny boots of Mortlock.
And colossal prints of Roe;
And ignored the proposition
That both time and money go.

Learned to work the wary dog-cart Artfully thro' King's Parade; Dress, and steer a boat, and sport with Amaryllis in the shade:

Struck, at Brown's, the dashing hazard;

Or (more curious sport than that)

Dropped, at Callaby's, the terrier

Down upon the prisoned rat.

I have stood serene on Fenner's

Ground, indifferent to blisters,

While the Buttress of the period

Bowled me his peculiar twisters:

Sung 'We won't go home till morning';

Striven to part my back-hair straight;

Drunk (not lavishly) of Miller's

Old dry wines at 781:—

When within my veins the blood ran,

And the curls were on my brow,

I did, oh ye undergraduates,

Much as ye are doing now.

Wherefore bless ye, O beloved ones:—

Now unto mine inn must I,

Your 'poor moralist,'* betake me,

In my solitary fly.)

*"Poor moralist, and what art thou?

A solitary fly."

GRAY.

BEER.

IN those old days which poets say were golden—
(Perhaps they laid the gilding on themselves:
And, if they did, I'm all the more beholden
To those brown dwellers in my dusty shelves,
Who talk to me "in language quaint and olden"
Of gods and demigods and fauns and elves,
Pan with his pipes, and Bacchus with his leopards,
And staid young goddesses who flirt with shepherds:)

In those old days, the Nymph called Etiquette
(Appalling thought to dwell on) was not born.

They had their May, but no Mayfair as yet,

No fashions varying as the hues of morn.

Just as they pleased they dressed and drank and ate,

Sang hymns to Ceres (their John Barleycorn)
And danced unchaperoned, and laughed unchecked,
And were no doubt extremely incorrect.

Yet do I think their theory was pleasant:

And oft, I own, my 'wayward fancy roams'
Back to those times, so different from the present;

When no one smoked cigars, nor gave At-homes,
Nor smote a billiard-ball, nor winged a pheasant,

Nor 'did' her hair by means of long-tailed combs,
Nor migrated to Brighton once a year,

Nor—most astonishing of all—drank Beer.

No, they did not drink Beer, "which brings me to"

(As Gilpin said) "the middle of my song."

Not that "the middle" is precisely true,

Or else I should not tax your patience long

If I had said 'beginning,' it might do;

But I have a dislike to quoting wrong:

I was unlucky—sinned against, not sinning—

When Cowper wrote down 'middle' for 'beginning.'

So to proceed. That abstinence from Malt

Has always struck me as extremely curious.

The Greek mind must have had some vital fault,

That they should stick to liquors so injurious—

(Wine, water, tempered p'raps with Attic salt)—

And not at once invent that mild, luxurious,

And artful beverage, Beer. How the digestion

Got on without it, is a startling question.

Had they digestions? and an actual body

Such as dyspepsia might make attacks on?

Were they abstract ideas—(like Tom Noddy

And Mr. Briggs)—or men, like Jones and Jackson?

Then nectar—was that beer, or whiskey-toddy?

Some say the Gaelic mixture, I the Saxon:

I think a strict adherence to the latter

Might make some Scots less pig-headed, and fatter.

Besides, Bon Gaultier definitely shows

That the real beverage for feasting gods on

Is a soft compound, grateful to the nose

And also to the palate, known as 'Hodgson.'

I know a man—a tailor's son—who rose

To be a peer: and this I would lay odds on,

(Though in his Memoirs it may not appear,)

That that man owed his rise to copious Beer.

O Beer! O Hodgson, Guinness, Allsop, Bass!

Names that should be on every infant's tongue!

Shall days and months and years and centuries pass,

And still your merits be unrecked, unsung?

Oh! I have gazed into my foaming glass,

And wished that lyre could yet again be strung

Which once rang prophet-like through Greece, and taught her

Misguided sons that the best drink was water.

How would he now recant that wild opinion,

And sing—as would that I could sing—of you!

I was not born (alas!) the "Muses' minion,"

I'm not poetical, not even blue:

And he, we know, but strives with waxen pinion,

Whoe'er he is that entertains the view

Of emulating Pindar, and will be

Sponsor at last to some now nameless sea.

Oh! when the green slopes of Arcadia burned
With all the lustre of the dying day,
And on Cithæron's brow the reaper turned,
(Humming, of course, in his delightful way,

How Lycidas was dead, and how concerned

. The Nymphs were when they saw his lifeless clay;
And how rock told to rock the dreadful story
That poor young Lycidas was gone to glory:)

What would that lone and laboring soul have given,
At that soft moment for a pewter pot!

How had the mists that dimmed his eye been riven,
And Lycidas and sorrow all forgot!

If his own grandmother had died unshriven,
In two short seconds he'd have recked it not;

Such power hath Beer. The heart which Grief hath canker'd

Hath one unfailing remedy—the Tankard.

Coffee is good, and so no doubt is cocoa;

Tea did for Johnson and the Chinamen:

When 'Dulce est desipere in loco'

Was written, real Falernian winged the pen.

When a rapt audience has encored 'Fra Poco'
Or 'Casta Diva,' I have heard that then
The Prima Donna, smiling herself out,
Recruits her flagging powers with bottled stout.

But what is coffee, but a noxious berry,

Born to keep used-up Londoners awake?

What is Falernian, what is Port or Sherry,

But vile concoctions to make dull heads ache?

Nay stout itself — (though good with oysters, very)—

Is not a thing your reading man should take.

He that would shine, and petrify his tutor,

Should drink draught Allsop in its "native pewter.'

But hark! a sound is stealing on my ear—

A soft and silvery sound—I know it well.

Its tinkling tells me that a time is near

Precious to me—it is the Dinner Bell.

O blessed Bell! Thou bringest beef and beer,

Thou bringest good things more than tongue may tell:

Seared is, of course, my heart—but unsubdued Is, and shall be, my appetite for food.

I go Untaught and feeble is my pen:

But on one statement I may safely venture:

That few of our most highly-gifted men

Have more appreciation of the trencher.

I go. One pound of British beef, and then
What Mr. Swiveller called a "modest quencher;"
That home-returning, I may 'soothly say,'
"Fate cannot touch me: I have dined to-day."

ODE TO TOBACCO.

THOU who, when fears attack,
Bidst them avaunt, and Black
Care, at the horseman's back
Perching, unseatest;
Sweet when the morn is gray;
Sweet, when they've cleared away
Lunch; and at close of day
Possibly sweetest:

I have a liking old

For thee, though manifold

Stories, I know, are told,

Not to thy credit;

How one (or two at most)

Drops make a cat a ghost—

Useless, except to roast—

Doctors have said it:

How they who use fusees

All grow by slow degrees

Brainless as chimpanzees,

Meagre as lizards;

Go mad, and beat their wives;

Plunge (after shocking lives)

Razors and carving knives

Into their gizzards.

Confound such knavish tricks!

Yet know I five or six

Smokers who freely mix

'Still with their neighbors,

Jones—(who, I'm glad to say,
Asked leave of Mrs. J.)—
Daily absorbs a clay
After his labors.

Cats may have had their goose

Cooked by tobacco-juice;

Still why deny its use

Thoughtfully taken?

We're not as tabbies are:

Smith, take a fresh cigar!

Jones, the tobacco-jar!

Here's to thee, Bacon!

DOVER TO MUNICH.

PAREWELL, farewell! Before our prow
Leaps in white foam the noisy channel;
A tourist's cap is on my brow,
My legs are cased in tourist's flannel:

Around me gasp the invalids—

The quantity to-night is fearful—

I take a brace or so of weeds,

And feel (as yet) extremely cheerful.

The night wears on:—my thirst I quench
With one imperial pint of porter;
Then drop upon a casual bench—
(The bench is short, but I am shorter)—

Place 'neath my head the havre-sac

Which I have stowed my little all in,

And sleep, though moist about the back,

Serenely in an old tarpaulin.

Bed at Ostend at 5 A.M.

Breakfast at 6, and train 6.30,

Tickets to Königswinter (mem.

The seats unutterably dirty).

And onward thro' those dreary flats

We move, with scanty space to sit on,

Flanked by stout girls with steeple hats,

And waists that paralyze a Briton;—

By many a tidy little town

Where tidy little Fraus sit knitting;

(The men's pursuits are, lying down,

Smoking perennial pipes, and spitting;)

And doze, and execrate the heat,

And wonder how far off Cologne is,

And if we shall get aught to eat,

Till we get there, save raw polonies:

Until at last the "gray old pile"

Is seen, is past, and three hours later
We're ordering steaks, and talking vile
Mock-German to an Austrian waiter.

Königswinter, hateful Königswinter!

Burying-place of all I loved so well!

Never did the most extensive printer

Print a tale so dark as thou couldst tell!

In the sapphire West the eve yet lingered,

Bathed in kindly light those hill-tops cold;

Fringed each cloud, and, stooping rosy-fingered,

Changed Rhine's waters into molten gold;—

While still nearer did his light waves splinter

Into silvery shafts the streaming light;

And I said I loved thee, Königswinter,

For the glory that was thine that night.

And we gazed, till slowly disappearing,
Like a day-dream, passed the pageant by,
And I saw but those lone hills, uprearing
Dull dark shapes against a hueless sky.

Then I turned, and on those bright hopes pondered
Whereof yon gay fancies were the type;
And my hand mechanically wandered
Towards my left-hand pocket for a pipe.

Ah! why starts each eyeball from its socket,

As, in Hamlet, start the guilty Queen's?

There, deep-hid in its accustomed pocket,

Lay my sole pipe, smashed to smithereens!

On, on the vessel steals;

Round go the paddle-wheels,

And now the tourist feels

As he should;

For king-like rolls the Rhine,

And the scenery's divine,

And the victuals and the wine

Rather good.

From every crag we pass'll

Rise up some hoar old castle;

The hanging fir-groves tassel

Every slope;

And the vine her lithe arms stretches

Over peasants singing catches—

And you'll make no end of sketches,

I should hope.

We've a nun here (called Therèse),

Two couriers out of place,

One Yankee with a face

Like a ferret's:

And three youths in scarlet caps

Drinking chocolate and schnapps—

A diet which perhaps

Has its merits.

And day again declines:
In shadow sleep the vines,
And the last ray thro' the pines
Feebly glows,
Then sinks behind yon ridge;
And the usual evening midge
Is settling on the bridge
Of my nose.

And keen's the air and cold,

And the sheep are in the fold,

And Night walks sable-stoled

Thro' the trees;

And on the silent river

The floating starbeams quiver;—

And now, the saints deliver

Us from fleas.

Avenues of broad white houses,

Basking in the noontide glare;—

Streets, which foot of traveller shrinks from,

As on hot plates shrinks the bear;—

Elsewhere lawns, and vista'd gardens,
Statues white, and cool arcades,
Where at eve the German warrior
Winks upon the German maids;—

Such is Munich:—broad and stately,

Rich of hue, and fair of form;

But, towards the end of August,

Unequivocally warm.

There, the long dim galleries threading,

May the artist's eye behold

Breathing from the "deathless canvass"

Records of the years of old:

Pallas there, and Jove, and Juno,

"Take" once more their "walks abroad,"

Under Titian's fiery woodlands

And the saffron skies of Claude:

There the Amazons of Rubens

Lift the failing arm to strike,

And the pale light falls in masses

On the horsemen of Vandyke;

And in Berghem's pools reflected

Hang the cattle's graceful shapes,

And Murillo's soft boy-faces

Laugh amid the Seville grapes;

And all purest, loveliest fancies

That in poets' souls may dwell

Started into shape and substance

At the touch of Raphael.

Lo! her wan arms folded meekly,

And the glory of her hair

Falling as a robe around her,

Kneels the Magdalen in prayer;

And the white-robed Virgin-mother

Smiles, as centuries back she smiled,

Half in gladness, half in wonder,

On the calm face of her Child:—

And that mighty Judgment-vision

Tells how man essayed to climb

Up the ladder of the ages,

Past the frontier-walls of Time;

Heard the trumpet-echoes rolling

Thro' the phantom-peopled sky,

And the still voice bid this mortal

Put on immortality.

Thence we turned, what time the blackbird

Pipes to vespers from his perch,

And from out the clattering city

Pass'd into the silent church;

Mark'd the shower of sunlight breaking

Thro' the crimson panes o'erhead,

And on pictured wall and window

Read the histories of the dead:

Till the kneelers round us, rising,

Crossed their foreheads and were gone;

And o'er aisle and arch and cornice,

Layer, on layer, the night came on.

CHARADES.

T.

SHE stood at Greenwich, motionless amid

The ever-shifting crowd of passengers.

I mark'd a big tear quivering on the lid

Of her deep-lustrous eye, and knew that hers

Were days of bitterness. But, "Oh! what stirs"

I said "such storm within so fair a breast?"

Even as I spoke, two apoplectic curs

Came feebly up: with one wild cry she prest

Each singly to her heart, and faltered, "Heaven be blest!"

Yet once again I saw her, from the deck

Of a black ship that steamed towards Blackwall.

She walked upon my first. Her stately neck

Bent o'er an object shrouded in her shawl:

I could not see the tears—the glad tears—fall,

Yet knew they fell. And "Ah," I said, "not puppies,

Seen unexpectedly, could lift the pall

From hearts who know what tasting misery's cup is

As Niobe's, or mine, or blighted William Guppy's."

- Spake John Grogblossom the coachman to Eliza Spinks the cook:
- "Mrs. Spinks," says he, "I've founder'd: 'Liza dear, I'm overtook.
- Druv into a corner reglar, puzzled as a babe unborn;
- Speak the word, my blessed 'Liza; speak, and John the coachman's yourn."

- Then Eliza Spinks made answer, blushing, to the coachman John:
- "John, I'm born and bred a spinster: I've begun and I'll go on.
- Endless cares and endless worrits, well I knows it, has a wife:
- Cooking for a genteel family, John, it's a goluptious life!

- "I gets £20 per annum—tea and things o' course not reckoned,—
- There's a cat that eats the butter, takes the coals, and breaks my sccond:
- There's soci'ty—James the footman;—(not that I look after him;
- But he's aff'ble in his manners, with amazing length of limb;)—

- "Never durst the missis enter here until I've said

 'Come in':
- If I saw the master peeping, I'd catch up the rolling-pin.
- Christmas-boxes, that's a something; perkisites, that's something too;
- And I think, take all together, John, I won't be on with you."
- John the coachman took his hat up, for he thought he'd had enough;
- Rubb'd an elongated forehead with a meditative cuff;
- Paused before the stable doorway; said, when there, in accents mild,
- "She's a fine young 'oman, cook is; but that's where it is, she's spiled."

I have read in some not marvellous tale,

(Or if I have not, I've dreamed)

Of one who filled up the convivial cup

Till the company round him seemed

To be vanished and gone, tho' the lamps upon

Their face as aforetime gleamed:

And his head sunk down, and a Lethe crept

O'er his powerful brain, and the young man slept.

Then they laid him with care in his moonlit bed:

But first—having thoughtfully fetched some tar—Adorn'd him with feathers, aware that the weather's

Uncertainty brings on at nights catarrh.

They stayed in his room till the sun was high:

But still did the feathered one give no sign

Of opening a peeper—he might be a sleeper Such as rests on the Northern or Midland line.

At last he woke, and with profound

Bewilderment he gazed around;

Dropped one, then both feet to the ground,

But never spake a word:

Then to my whole he made his way;

Took one long lingering survey;

And softly, as he stole away,

Remarked, "By Jove, a bird!"

- IF you've seen a short man swagger tow'rds the footlights at Shoreditch,
- Sing out "Heave aho! my hearties," and perpetually hitch
- Up, by an ingenious movement, trousers innocent of brace,
- Briskly flourishing a cudgel in his pleased companion's face;
- If he preluded with hornpipes each successive thing he did,
- From a sun-browned cheek extracting still an ostentatious quid;
- And expectorated freely, and occasionally cursed :-

- Then have you beheld, depicted by a master's hand, my first.
- O my countryman! if ever from thy arm the bolster sped,
- In thy school-days, with precision at a young companion's head;
- If 'twas thine to lodge the marble in the centre of the ring,
- Or with well-directed pebble make the sitting hen take wing:
- Then do thou—each fair May morning, when the blue lake is as glass,
- And the gossamers are twinkling star-like in the beaded grass;
- When the mountain-bee is sipping fragrance from the bluebell's lip,

- And the bathing-woman tells you, Now's your time to take a dip:
- When along the misty valleys field-ward winds the lowing herd,
- And the early worm is being dropped on by the early bird;
- And Aurora hangs her jewels from the bending rose's cup,
- And the myriad voice of Nature calls thee to my second up:—

- Hie thee to the breezy common, where the melancholy goose
- Stalks, and the astonished donkey finds that he is really loose;
- There amid green fern and furze-bush shalt thou soon my whole behold,

- Rising 'bull-eyed and majestic'—as Olympus' queen of old:
- Kneel,—at a respectful distance,—as they kneeled to her, and try
- With judicious hand to put a ball into that ball-less eye:
- Till a stiffness seize thy elbows, and the general public wake—
- Then return, and, clear of conscience, walk into thy well-earned steak.

ERE yet "knowledge for the million"
Came out "neatly bound in boards";
When like Care upon a pillion
Matrons rode behind their lords:
Rarely, save to hear the Rector,
Forth did younger ladies roam;
Making pies, and brewing nectar
From the gooseberry-trees at home.

They'd not dreamed of Pau or Vevay;

Ne'er should into blossom burst

At the ball of at the levée;

Never come, in fact, my first:

Nor illumine cards by dozens

With some labyrinthine text,

Nor work smoking-caps for cousins

Who were pounding at my next.

Now have skirts, and minds, grown ampler;

Now not all they seek to do

Is create upon a sampler

Beasts which Buffon never knew:

But their venturous muslins rustle

O'er the cragstone and the snow,

Or at home their biceps muscle

Grows by practising the bow.

Worthy they those dames who, fable
Says, rode "palfreys" to the war
With some giant Thane, whose "sable
Destrier caracoled" before;
Smiled, as—springing from the war-horse
As men spring in modern 'cirques'—
He plunged, ponderous as a four-horse
Coach, among the vanished Turks:—

In the good times when the jester

Asked the monarch how he was,

And the landlady addrest her

Guests as 'gossip' or as 'coz';

When the Templar said, "Gramercy,"

Or, "'Twas shrewdly thrust, i' fegs,"

To Sir Halbert or Sir Percy

As they knocked him off his legs:

And, by way of mild reminders

That he needed coin, the Knight

Day by day extracted grinders

From the howling Israelite:

And my whole in merry Sherwood

Sent, with preterhuman luck,

Missiles—not of steel but firwood—

Thro' the two-mile-distant buck.

TVENING threw soberer hue Over the blue sky, and the few Poplars that grew just in the view Of the hall of Sir Hugo de Wynkle: "Answer me true," pleaded Sir Hugh, (Striving some hard-hearted maiden to woo,) "What shall I do, Lady, for you? 'Twill be done, ere your eye may twinkle. Shall I borrow the wand of a Moorish enchanter, And bid a decanter contain the Levant, or The brass from the face of a Mormonite ranter? Shall I go for the mule of the Spanish Infantar-(That r, for the sake of the line, we must grant her,)-

And race with the foul fiend, and beat in a canter,

Like that first of equestrians Tam o' Shanter?

I talk not mere banter—say not that I can't, or

By this my first—(a Virginia planter

Sold it me to kill rats)—I will die instanter."

The Lady bended her ivory neck, and

Whispered mournfully, "Go for—my second."

She said, and the red from Sir Hugh's cheek fled,

And "Nay," did he say, as he stalked away

The fiercest of injured men:

"Twice have I humbled my haughty soul,

And on bended knee have I pressed my whole—

But I never will press it again!"

ON pinnacled St. Mary's

Lingers the setting sun;

Into the streets the blackguards

Are skulking one by one:

Butcher and Boots and Bargeman

Lay pipe and pewter down;

And with wild shout come tumbling out

To join the Town and Gown.

And now the undergraduates

Come forth by twos and threes,

From the broad tower of Trinity,

From the green gate of Caius:

The wily bargeman marks them,

And swears to do his worst;

To turn to impotence their strength,

And their beauty to my first.

But before Corpus gateway

My second first arose,

When Barnacles the Freshman

Was pinned upon the nose:

Pinned on the nose by Boxer,

Who brought a hobnailed herd

From Barnwell, where he kept a van,

Being indeed a dogsmeat man,

Vendor of terriers, blue or tan,

And dealer in my third.

'Twere long to tell how Boxer

Was 'countered' on the cheek,

And knocked into the middle

Of the ensuing week:

How Barnacles the Freshman

Was asked his name and college;

And how he did the fatal facts

Reluctantly acknowledge

He called upon the Proctor

Next day at half-past ten;

Men whispered that the Freshman cut

A different figure then:—

That the brass forsook his forehead,

The iron fled his soul,

As with blanched lip and visage wan

Before the stony-hearted Don

He kneeled upon my whole.

SIKES, housebreaker, of Houndsditch,
Habitually swore;
But so surpassingly profane
He never was before,
As on a night in winter,
When—softly as he stole
In the dim light from stair to stair,
Noiseless as boys who in her lair
Seek to surprise a fat old hare—
He barked his shinbone, unaware Encountering my whole.

As pours the Anio plainward,

When rains have swollen the dykes,

So, with such noise, poured down my first

Stirred by the shins of Sikes.

The Butler Bibulus heard it;

And straightway ceased to snore,

And sat up, like an egg on end,

While men might count a score:

Then spake he to Tigerius,

A Buttons bold was he:

"Buttons, I think there's thieves about;

Just strike a light and tumble out;

If you can't find one go without,

And see what you may see."

But now was all the household,

Almost, upon its legs,

Each treading carefully about

As if they trod on eggs.

With robe far-streaming issued

Paterfamilias forth;

And close behind him,—stout and true

And tender as the North,—

Came Mrs. P., supporting

On her broad arm her fourth.

Betsy the nurse, who never From largest beetle ran,

And—conscious p'raps of pleasing caps—

The housemaids, formed the van:

And Bibulus the butler,

His calm brows slightly arched;

(No mortal wight had ere that night Seen him with shirt unstarched;)

And Bob the shockhaired knife-boy, Wielding two Sheffield blades,

And James Plush of the sinewy legs,

The love of lady's maids:

And charwoman and chaplain

Stood mingled in a mass,

And "Things," thought he of Houndsditch,

"Is come to a pretty pass."

Beyond all things a baby

Is to the school girl dear;

Next to herself the nursemaid loves

Her dashing grenadier;

Only with life the sailor

Parts from the British flag;

While one hope lingers, the cracksman's fingers

Drop not his hard-earned swag.

But, as hares do my second

Thro' green Calabria's copses,
As females vanish at the sight
Of short-horns and of wopses;
So, dropping forks and teaspoons,
The pride of Houndsditch fled,
Dumbfoundered by the hue and cry
He'd raised up overhead.

They gave him—did the judges—

As much as was his due.

And, Saxon, shouldst thou e'er be led

To deem this tale untrue;

Then—any night in winter,

When the cold north wind blows,

And bairns are told to keep out cold

By tallowing the nose:

When round the fire the elders

Are gathered in a bunch,

And the girls are doing crochet,

And the boys are reading Punch:—

Go thou and look in Leech's book;

There haply shalt thou spy

A stout man on a staircase stand,

With aspect anything but bland,

And rub his right shin with his hand,

To witness if I lie.

PROVERBIAL PHILOSOPHY.

INTRODUCTORY.

- $A^{\rm RT}$ thou beautiful, O my daughter, as the budding rose of April?
- Are all thy motions music, and is poetry throned in thine eye?
- Then hearken unto me; and I will make the bud

 a fair flower,
- I will plant it upon the bank of Elegance, and water it with the water of Cologne;
- And in the season it shall "come out," yea bloom, the pride of the parterre;
- Ladies shall marvel at its beauty, and a Lord shall pluck it at the last.

OF PROPRIETY.

- Study first Propriety: for she is indeed the Pole-
- Which shall guide the artless maiden through the mazes of Vanity Fair;
- Nay, she is the golden chain which holdeth together Society;
- The lamp by whose light young Psyche shall approach unblamed her Eros.
- Verily Truth is as Eve, which was ashamed being naked;
- Wherefore doth Propriety dress her with the fair foliage of artifice:
- And when she is drest, behold! she knoweth not herself again.—

- 214
- I walked in the Forest; and above me stood the Yew,
- Stood like a slumbering giant, shrouded in impenetrable shade;
- Then I pass'd into the citizen's garden, and marked a tree clipt into shape,
- (The giant's locks had been shorn by the Dalilahshears of Decorum;)
- And I said, "Surely nature is goodly; but how much goodlier is Art!"
- I heard the wild notes of the lark floating far over the blue sky,
- And my foolish heart went after him, and, lo!

 I blessed him as he rose;
- Foolish! for far better is the trained boudon belinch,
- Which pipeth the semblance of a tune, and mechanically draweth up water:

- And the reinless steed of the desert, though his neck be clothed with thunder,
- Must yield to him that danceth and 'moveth in the circles' at Astley's.
- For verily, O my daughter, the world is a masquerade,
 - And God made thee one thing that thou mightest make thyself another:
 - A maiden's heart is as champagne, ever aspiring and struggling upwards,
 - And it needed that its motions be checked by the silvered cork of Propriety:
 - He that can afford the price, his be the precious treasure,
 - Let him drink deeply of its sweetness, nor grumble if it tasteth of the cork.

OF FRIENDSHIP.

- Choose judiciously thy friends; for to discard them is undesirable,
- Yet it is better to drop thy friends, O my daughter, than to drop thy 'H's'.
- Dost thou know a wise woman? yea, wiser than the children of light?
- Hath she a position? and a title? and are her parties in the Morning Post?
- If thou dost, cleave unto her, and give up unto her thy body and mind;
- Think with her ideas, and distribute thy smiles at her bidding:
- So shalt thou become like unto her; and thy manners shall be "formed,"

- And thy name shall be a Sesame, at which the doors of the great shall fly open:
- Thou shalt know every Peer, his arms, and the date of his creation,
- His pedigree and their intermarriages, and cousins to the sixth remove:
- Thou shalt kiss the hand of Royalty, and lo! in next morning's papers.
- Side by side with rumors of wars, and stories of shipwrecks and sieges,
- Shall appear thy name, and the minutiæ of thy head-dress and petticoat,
- For an enraptured public to muse upon over their matutinal muffin.

OF READING.

- Read not Milton, for he is dry; nor Shakespeare, for he wrote of common life:
- Nor Scott, for his romances, though fascinating, are yet intelligible:
- Nor Thackeray, for he is a Hogarth, a photographer who flattereth not:
- Nor Kingsley, for he shall teach thee that thou shouldest not dream, but do.
- Read incessantly thy Burke; that Burke who, nobler than he of old,
- Treateth of the Peer and Peeress, the truly Sublime and Beautiful:
- Likewise study the "creations" of "the Prince of modern Romance";
- Sigh over Leonard the Martyr, and smile on Pelham the puppy:

- Learn how "love is the dram-drinking of existence";
- And how we "invoke, in the Gadara of our still closets,
- The beautiful ghost of the Ideal, with the simple wand of the pen."
- Listen how Maltravers and the orphan "forgot all but love,"
- And how Devereux's family chaplain "made and unmade kings":
- How Eugene Aram, though a thief, a liar, and a murderer,
- Yet, being intellectual, was among the noblest of mankind.
- So shalt thou live in a world peopled with heroes and master-spirits;
- And if thou canst not realize the Ideal, thou shalt at least idealize the Real.

DIRGE.

"Dr. Birch's young friends will reassemble to-day, Feb. 1st."

WHITE is the wold, and ghostly
The dank and leafless trees;
And 'M's and 'N's are mostly Pronounced like 'B's and 'D's:
'Neath bleak sheds, ice-encrusted,
The sheep stands, mute and stolid:
And ducks find out, disgusted,
That all the ponds are solid.

Many a stout steer's work is

(At least in this world) finished;

The gross amount of turkeys

Is sensibly diminished:

The holly-boughs are faded,

The painted crackers gone;

Would I could write, as Gray did,

An Elegy thereon!

For Christmas-time is ended:

Now is "our youth" regaining

Those sweet spots where are "blended

Home-comforts and school-training."

Now they're, I dare say, venting

Their grief in transient sobs,

And I am "left lamenting"

At home, with Mrs. Dobbs.

O Posthumus! "Fugaces

Labuntur anni" still;

Time robs us of our graces,

Evade him as we will.

We were the twins of Siam:

Now she thinks me a bore,

And I admit that I am

Inclined at times to snore.

I was her own Nathaniel;
With her I took sweet counsel,
Brought seed-cake for her spaniel,
And kept her bird in groundsel:
We've murmured, "How delightful
A landscape seen by night, is,"—
And woke next day in frightful
Pain from acute bronchitis.

But ah! for them, whose laughter

We heard last New Year's Day,—

(They recked not of Hereafter,

Or what the Doctor 'd say,)—

For those small forms that fluttered

Moth-like around the plate,

When Sally brought the buttered

Buns in at half-past eight!

Ah for the altered visage

Of her, our tiny Belle,

Whom my boy Gus (at his age!)

Said was a "deuced swell!"

P'raps now Miss Tickler's tocsin

Has caged that pert young linnet;

Old Birch perhaps is boxing

My Gus's ears this minute.

Yet, though your young ears be as

Red as mamma's geraniums,

Yet grieve not! Thus ideas

Pass into infant craniums.

Use not complaints unseemly;

Tho' you must work like bricks;

And it is cold, extremely,

Rising at half-past six.

Soon sunnier will the day grow,

And the east wind not blow so;

Soon, as of yore, L'Allegro

Succeed Il Penseroso:

Stick to your Magnall's Questions

And Long Division sums;

And come—with good digestions—

Home when next Christmas comes.

THE CUCKOO. *

FORTH I wandered, years ago,
When the summer sun was low,
And the forest all aglow
With his light:
'Twas a day of cloudless skies;'
When the trout declines to rise,
And in vain the angler sighs
For a bite.

And the cuckoo piped away—

How I love his simple lay,
O'er the cowslip-fields of May
As it floats!

^{*} From Scribner's Monthly for January, 1873.

May was over, and of course,

He was just a little hoarse,
And appeared to me to force

Certain notes.

Since mid-April, men averred,
People's pulses, inly stirred
By the music of the bird,
Had upleapt:

It was now the close of June;

I reflected that he'd soon
Sing entirely out of tune,
And I wept.

Looking up, I marked a maid

Float balloon-like o'er the glade,

Casting evermore a staid

Glance around:

And I thrilled with sweet surprise

When she dropt, all virgin-wise,

First a courtesy, then her eyes

To the ground.

Others' eyes have p'raps to you
Seemed ethereally blue,
But you see you never knew
Kate Adair.

What a mien she had! Her hat

With what dignity it sat

On the mystery, or mat,

Of her hair!

We were neighbors. I had doff'd

Cap and hat to her so oft

That the latter had grown soft

In the brim:

I had gone out of my way

To bid e'en her sire good-day,

Though I wasn't, I may say,

Fond of him:—

And we met, in streets and shops,

But by rill or mazy copse,

Where your speech abruptly stops

And you get

Incoherent ere you know it—

Where, though nothing of a poet,

You intuitively go it—

Never yet.

So my love had ne'er been told!

Till the day when forth I strolled

And the jolly cuckoo trolled

Out his song,

Naught had passed betwixt us twoSave a bashful 'How d'ye do'
And a blushing 'How do you
Get along?'

But that eve—how swift it passed!—
Words that burned flew from me fast
For the first time and the last
In my life:
Low and lower drooped her chin,
As I murmured how I'd skin

Or behead myself to win

Such a wife.

There we stood. The squirrel leaped

Overhead: the throstle peeped

Through the leaves, all sunshine-steeped,

Of the lime.

There we stood alone: a third

Would have made the thing absurd:

And she scarcely spoke a word

All the time.

We've a little Kate, a dear!

She's attained her thirteenth year,

And declares she feels a queer

Sort of shock—

Not unpleasant though at all—

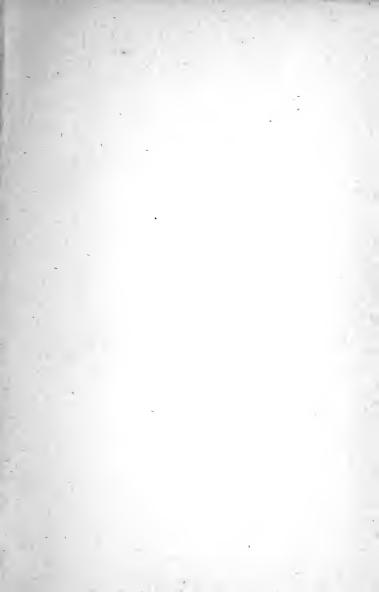

When she hears a cuckoo call:

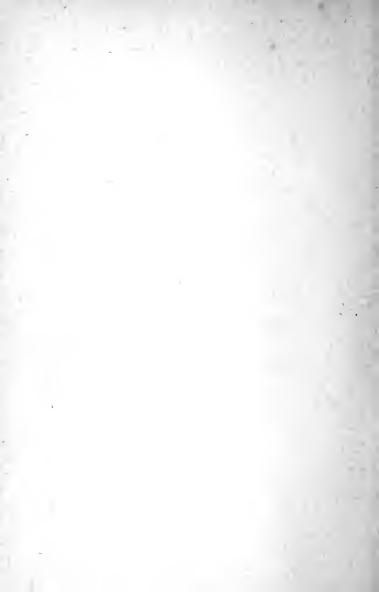

So I've purchased her a small

Cuckoo-clock.
